WHERE IT STARTED—A buried gasoline tank on the west side of the George W. Schmidt residence at Mishicot is believed to have supplied fuel for a flash fire that trapped Schmidt, causing his death, and gutting the interior of the home Monday noon. Heavy rains and melting snow filtered into the rusted tank and forced some of the gasoline in the tank through pipes and into the basement. The gasoline spread over the water in the basement and a spark from a refrigerator motor is thought to have touched off the flash fire. Wednesday the tank was dug out and examined, smashed and buried in its original hole in the foreground. The gasoline had been used years ago for illumination and cooking. TRAIN PLUNGES INTO HARBOR

March 7. 1958

INTO THE RIVER—The harbor at Two Rivers was "the end of the line" for a diesel switch engine and nine cars early Friday morning. The North Western train left Calumet yards at Manitowoc and traveled without incident to the river, with the speed of the train carrying it through a dead-end barricade, over frozen ground and into 18 feet of water. One car catapulted over the train and was salvaged (lower photo) by the Coast Guard. One of the other cars rested on the diesel. The third car in the string jackknifed but the remainder of the train stayed on the tracks. Salvage effort were underway after noon Friday. How the train got started has not yet been solved by officials of the railroad. Additional photo on inside page.

10-Mile Run Is Mystery

Diver Can't See If Anyone in Submerged Engine at Two Rivers

TWO RIVERS—A diesel and a nine-car freight—runaways from a switching yard at Manitowoc while its crew was at breakfast—barreled 10 miles through the two cities Friday morning. The engine and two cars then jumped the tracks and plunged into 18 feet of water at the harbor here.

A diver of McMullen & Pitz Construction Co. of Manitowoc twice searched the harbor where the diesel lay to locate the engine's position. He could not see whether anyone was in the cab of the engine.

The incident baffled railroad officials. One held out the theory that the diesel, its motors idling while the crew breakfasted, attracted someone who clambered aboard and threw the forward throttle.

Another person said the unscheduled run may have been caused by mechanical failure.

First report of the baffling accident came to the Two Rivers police shortly before 3 a. m. when Jerome Ruether, 20, of 1411—11th St., residing across the river from the Reiss yards, told authorities that a train had run into the harbor.

Ruether, who was with his wife, Caroline, were leaving the car of a friend, David Mattek, 20, of Rt. 2, Two Rivers, when Ruether turned to his wife, exclaiming, "What's a train doing in Two Rivers at this time of the night?"

'50 Miles an Hour'

"A moment later," Ruether said, "the train which was moving at least 50 miles an hour, plunged into the harbor. I saw a box car catapault over the engine as it hit the water.

Ruether, who said he found it difficult for the police to believe his story when he jumped into his own car to reach headquarters with the bizarre tale. He said it was shortly before 3 a.m. when he arrived home from a visit at the Mattek home.

The crew of the ill-fated train had left it for lunch about 2:10 a.m. in the Calumet Yards of the railroad company. The engine was reported to have been left running with the brakes secured. When the crew returned it found the engine and freight cars missing.

Two Rivers police contacted Manitowoc authorities at 3 a.m. after discovering Ruether had been telling the truth. Lights of the diesel engine could be seen under the water.

Police here theorized the train had been moving through Two Rivers from Manitowoc at a fast rate of speed as indicated by the way the steel entrance gate at the Reiss yards was parted. The track runs due east to a point 65 feet from the concrete harbor dock.

Open Switches Are Usual

Jess L. Hamilton, station agent of the North Western Road at Manitowoc, said shortly before noon Friday that the switches in the yards and also in Manitowoc are always open at that time of the night to permit a train to go directly to Two Rivers.

The diver, Ray Sousek, 32, of this city, three years with the Manitowoc firm, established the diesel was about 60 feet northeast of the dock with the cabin of the engine nearest the dock.

Railroad officials said equipment would be brought in from Green bay and salvage would start shortly.

A. O. Culver, Calumet Yard yardmaster, said it was "improbable" the train could have made the 30-minute trip by itself. He quoted other instances where trains had been taken and said that it had to be someone was curious.

The crew, after lunch, returned to the spot where the train had been — but no train.

The errant freight passed 20 crossings, including heavily traveled Highways 10-42 (Waldo Boulevard). The diesel is valued at between $150,000 and $200,000.

Several persons reported seeing the train on its run from Manitowoc to Two Rivers.

Estimate Movement Slow

Manitowoc Police Officers Roland Dueno and Frank Wensing said they were cruising east one Mirro Drive in a squad car about 2:30 a.m. when they saw a train headed for Two Rivers. It was traveling at an estimated speed of five to eight miles an hour and did not sound a warning at the crossing, they said.

However, the officers had no knowledge that anything was wrong until 4 a.m. when they learned that a train was missing from the Calumet Yards.

Arthur Schroeder, a Wisconsin Public Service Corp. employe who resides at 1316 N. Eighth St., told police he saw a train pass the power plant on Revere Drive after 2 a.m. Schroeder said he remarked to another employe, Ed Werner of 719 Jay St., Manitowoc, that the train did not sound a warning at the crossing there.

Schroeder added that railroad personnel usually are on duty at the crossing with a lantern when a train passes, or they use a flare.

Schroeder said the train was traveling at a slow rate of speed but seemed to pick up speed after passing the crossing. Like the police officers, he described the light on front of the engine as being "dim."

Schroeder learned of the missing train on a Milwaukee radio station broadcast at 4:30 a.m.

Runaway Truck

MANITOWOC — A railway train was not the only vehicle which ran away here during the night. The Manitowoc Fire Department's aerial ladder truck was parked on an incline at the post office annex next door on Franklin Street when the brakes released. The truck rolled across the street and bumped the rescue squad vehicle. There was little damage. The incident occurred about 7 p.m. Thursday when preparations were being made for an area firemen training session here.

14-Classroom School Planned in Manitowoc

Project to Be Biggest In History of Parish; Cost Set at $425,000

The Present St. Mary's School was erected in two sections. The older section, near the church, was built in 1906 and the newer section, to the right, in 1926. There are 11 classrooms in use in this building. It will be razed to make way for the new school.—(Manitowoc Herald-Times photo)

The New St. Mary's will be a large three-level building measuring 175 by 121 feet. Glass and aluminum will be prominent on the exterior walls. The building will contain 44,000 square feet.—(Manitowoc Herald-Times photo)

Manitowoc.—The largest and the most costly construction project in the 89-year history of St. Mary's Parish here will begin in April, according to an announcement made in the past week by Monsignor John Landowski, pastor. Contracts have been let for the erection of a 14-classroom school and a large multi-purpose or gymnasium room. Cost of construction, exclusive of furnishings, will be about $425,000.

Since the new building will be erected on the site of the present school, Marshall and S. 22nd Streets, the 504 children at present enrolled in St. Mary's School will begin classes in the Adams School of the public school system about April 1. It is expected that the razing of the present buildings will commence near that time.

In preparation for the project the parish has leased the Adams School from the City of Manitowoc. Retarded children and kindergarten students now in attendance at Adams will be accommodated elsewhere in the city system when the St. Mary students move in. The Felician Sisters who make up the faculty of St. Mary's will continue as the teachers in the Adams School. It is expected that the new St. Mary's will be ready for occupancy in less than a year. The congregation's lease on the Adams School will, however, continue until Sept. 1, 1960.

Contracts that have been awarded thus far total $408,314. They are the general contract to Hamann Construction, Manitowoc, for a bid of $314,020; electrical, Anderson Electric, $31,250; plumbing, Nelesen Plumbing, $28,471; and painting, George Kumbalek, Two Rivers, $7,573. The heating and ventilating will be done by the George Rutherford Company, Manitowoc, according to the terms of a contract to be negotiated directly with the congregation. Frederick W. Raeuber and Associates, Manitowoc, are the architects.

The new building will contain a large multi-purpose room measuring 58 by 105 feet which can serve both as a gymnasium and as a large dining hall. At one end of this room there will be a stage area measuring 30 by 90 feet permitting the use of the room as an auditorium. On the same grade level there will be a men's club room, a kitchen capable of serving 600 people, a meeting room, locker and shower rooms, offices and lounges. The upper two floors will contain the classrooms all of which are designed to permit the maximum use of natural illumination.

The edifice will be of steel frame construction with concrete foundation and floors. The exterior walls will be of aluminum and glass curtain wall construction. Two large exterior walls will be faced with glass tile mosaic imported from Italy. Ceramic tile and plaster will surface the interior walls and acoustic tile will be installed throughout including the multi-purpose area.

The cost of the project will average about $11 per square foot or about 80 cents per cubic foot. This cost includes both the razing of the old building and the construction of the new.

CLOSE WORK—Tearing down the old county armory building poses a problem because it is situated six feet from a house to the south and 15 to 20 feet from a garage to the west. A 36 foot high plywood panel was constructed by Kasper Construction Co. employes to protect the house at the far left. The crane with a 70 foot boom is operated by Harry Van Veghel, veteran Kasper employe, who exhibits a deft skill with the machine. Demolition of the three-story building with 30 foot wooden tower is expected to be completed next week Wednesday. (Photo by staff photographer)

DAYS GONE BY—This old photo of St. Mary Catholic School in Manitowoc shows the appearance of the building before additions were added in later years. The present school building will be replaced by a new school plant which will cost an estimated $400,000. The new building will contain 14 classrooms, kitchen, combination gymnasium and dining hall, offices, lounges and service rooms.

COMING DOWN—Razing operations on the St. Mary Catholic School, located at South 22nd and Marshall streets, Manitowoc, are in full swing. The interior of the building has already been razed, and workmen literally began razing the roof this week. The school is being torn down to make room for a new school plant scheduled for completion within a year. Students will resume classes in the Adams Elementary School following Easter vacation. CONTINUED PROGRESS — This latest progress photo shows the new half million dollar, 14 classroom, St. Mary Catholic School, South 21st and Marshall streets, Manitowoc, designed by Architect Frederick W. Raeuber and Associates and being built by Hamman Const. Co. of Manitowoc. Here heavy gauge Alcoa Aluminum curtain walls sections which were made up at the factory and delivered to the job by truck for erection by skilled mechanics, are being installed. These sections are more than 27 feet high from basement to roof and vary from 46 to 92 inches wide in one piece and will cover more than 5,700 square feet of exterior street wall surface. In keeping with the new school trend for large glass areas, the two classroom street walls where windows occur, aluminum curtain walls and colored panels form a complete wall surface for easy maintenance and modern design. These curtain panels and ventilators were built under one manufacturer and have complete neoprene weather stripping and expansion joints between sections for weather tight installation. The use of aluminum is not something new in Manitowoc with its world-wide reputation for aluminum use and manufacturing. A new steel structural frame system and widespread use of aluminum walls lessened the load on foundations and provided more window freedom for the structure. All mechanical trades have kept pace with general construction progress and the building is expected to be completed on schedule. (Photo by staff photographer)

SCHOOL REOPENS—The doors of the new St. Mary Catholic School located at South 21st and Marshall streets, Manitowoc, swung open for the first day of classes Tuesday. Members of the congregation began moving equipment into the new brick, plate glass and aluminum structure Saturday. Students were attending classes at the Adams Elementary School which was turned over to the parish by the Manitowoc public school system while the new school was being constructed. No formal dedication ceremony for the new structure will be conducted until next spring when the building will be dedicated in conjunction with confirmation ceremonies. The new 14-room school plant cost in excess of $400,000. Ground for the school was broken March 14 with a year's completion date. (Photo by staff photographer.

SCHOOL DEDICATED — The new and modern St. Mary School at Manitowoc was blessed and dedicated Sunday afternoon by the Most Rev. Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona of the Green Bay Diocese. Hundreds of members of St. Mary parish attended the ceremonies and formed the procession with clergymen from church to the school. Part of the throng is visible in the upper picture. In the lower scene Bishop Bona is blessing a crucifix, one of 14 to be mounted in the classrooms. Assisting the Bishop from left were altar boys Jack Kattner, James Rugowski and Thomas Tadych, the Rev. Edward Nowakowski, formerly assistant pastor at St. Mary and now at Armstrong Creek, the bishop and altar boy Dennis Musial. Between Father Nowakowski and the bishop is the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry Letz of St. Andrew Church. Following the blessing and dedication there was open house at the school. After the ceremony boys and girls and adults were confirmed at the church where Bishop Bona assisted. The school, which boasts a large gymnasium or multi-purpose room, has been used for some time by the students. (Photos by staff photographer.)

Bishop to Bless, Dedicate New School at St. Mary

MANITOWOC— Catholic Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona of the Green Bay Diocese will bless and dedicate the new St. Mary School here at 3 p.m. Sunday.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Landowski, parish priest, said the ceremony will culminate a building program that has been under way in the parish for some time. The modern school plant of 14 classrooms, a large gymnasium, recreation room and kitchen facilities, built on three levels, cost $530,000.

Msgr. Landowski added that in connection with the blessing and dedication Bishop Bona will confer the Sacrament of Confirmation on a class of 225 young people and adults in the church.

500 Students Involved

The new St. Mary School stands on the site of the older structure it replaced. April 1, 1959, students at the school at Marshall and South 21st streets visited the old school the last time and then started classes at Adams School while the new structure was being erected. Now 500 students are using the modern plant.

Until Nov. 30 of last year, when the students returned to the old site and studied in the new building, they used the Adams School, leased by the city to the parish.

Speed of construction was the key to the building program, and some of this was made possible by the extensive use of aluminum and porcelain curtain walls on two sides of the large building. The exterior is further enhanced by walls faced with brown glass tile mosaic imported from Italy. Large crosses set in a contrasting lighter color in these walls are illuminated at night.

Walls of windows permit natural light in an abundant degree.

Full-Size Stage

Classrooms are shaped in an L. The multi-purpose room or gymnasium is the only one of its kind attached to a parochial school in the city. The gym is 58 by 80 feet and has a 23-foot ceiling. There is a full-size stage at the southern end. There are two shower rooms just off the gymnasium.

The classrooms measure 30 by 29 feet, have acoustic tile ceilings and are lighted with full - length fluorescent fixtures.

A unique feature in washrooms is two spigots for each washbowl. Tempered water comes from one, soap from the other. The water temperature is pre-set by the building custodian and cannot be changed by youngsters. The faucet is turned on by a valve on the floor operated by foot. The washrooms and lavatories are tiled.

A kitchen is located near the gym. Much of the equipment is of stainless steel. Also on the basement level is a 30 by 80-foot club room for meetings and for use of St. Mary Young Men's Club members. An intercommunication system connects all rooms. Radiant heating is employed for air conditioning in all outside rooms of the basement area.

Other Projects Completed

Within the past 26 years the parish built a rectory, this in 1934; the church was redecorated and remodeled in 1945; and a new convent was constructed in 1947. Total cost of the school plant and equipment is $528,838.

Committeemen working with Msgr. Landowski were Max C. Mrotek, Andrew Ligman, Newphrey Check, Peter Rysticken, John Sobieski, Bernard Andrastek, Anthony Rugowski, Eugene Revolinski, Ben Tomczyk and Sylvester Bonk. Frederick W. Raeuber and Associates of the city were the architects.

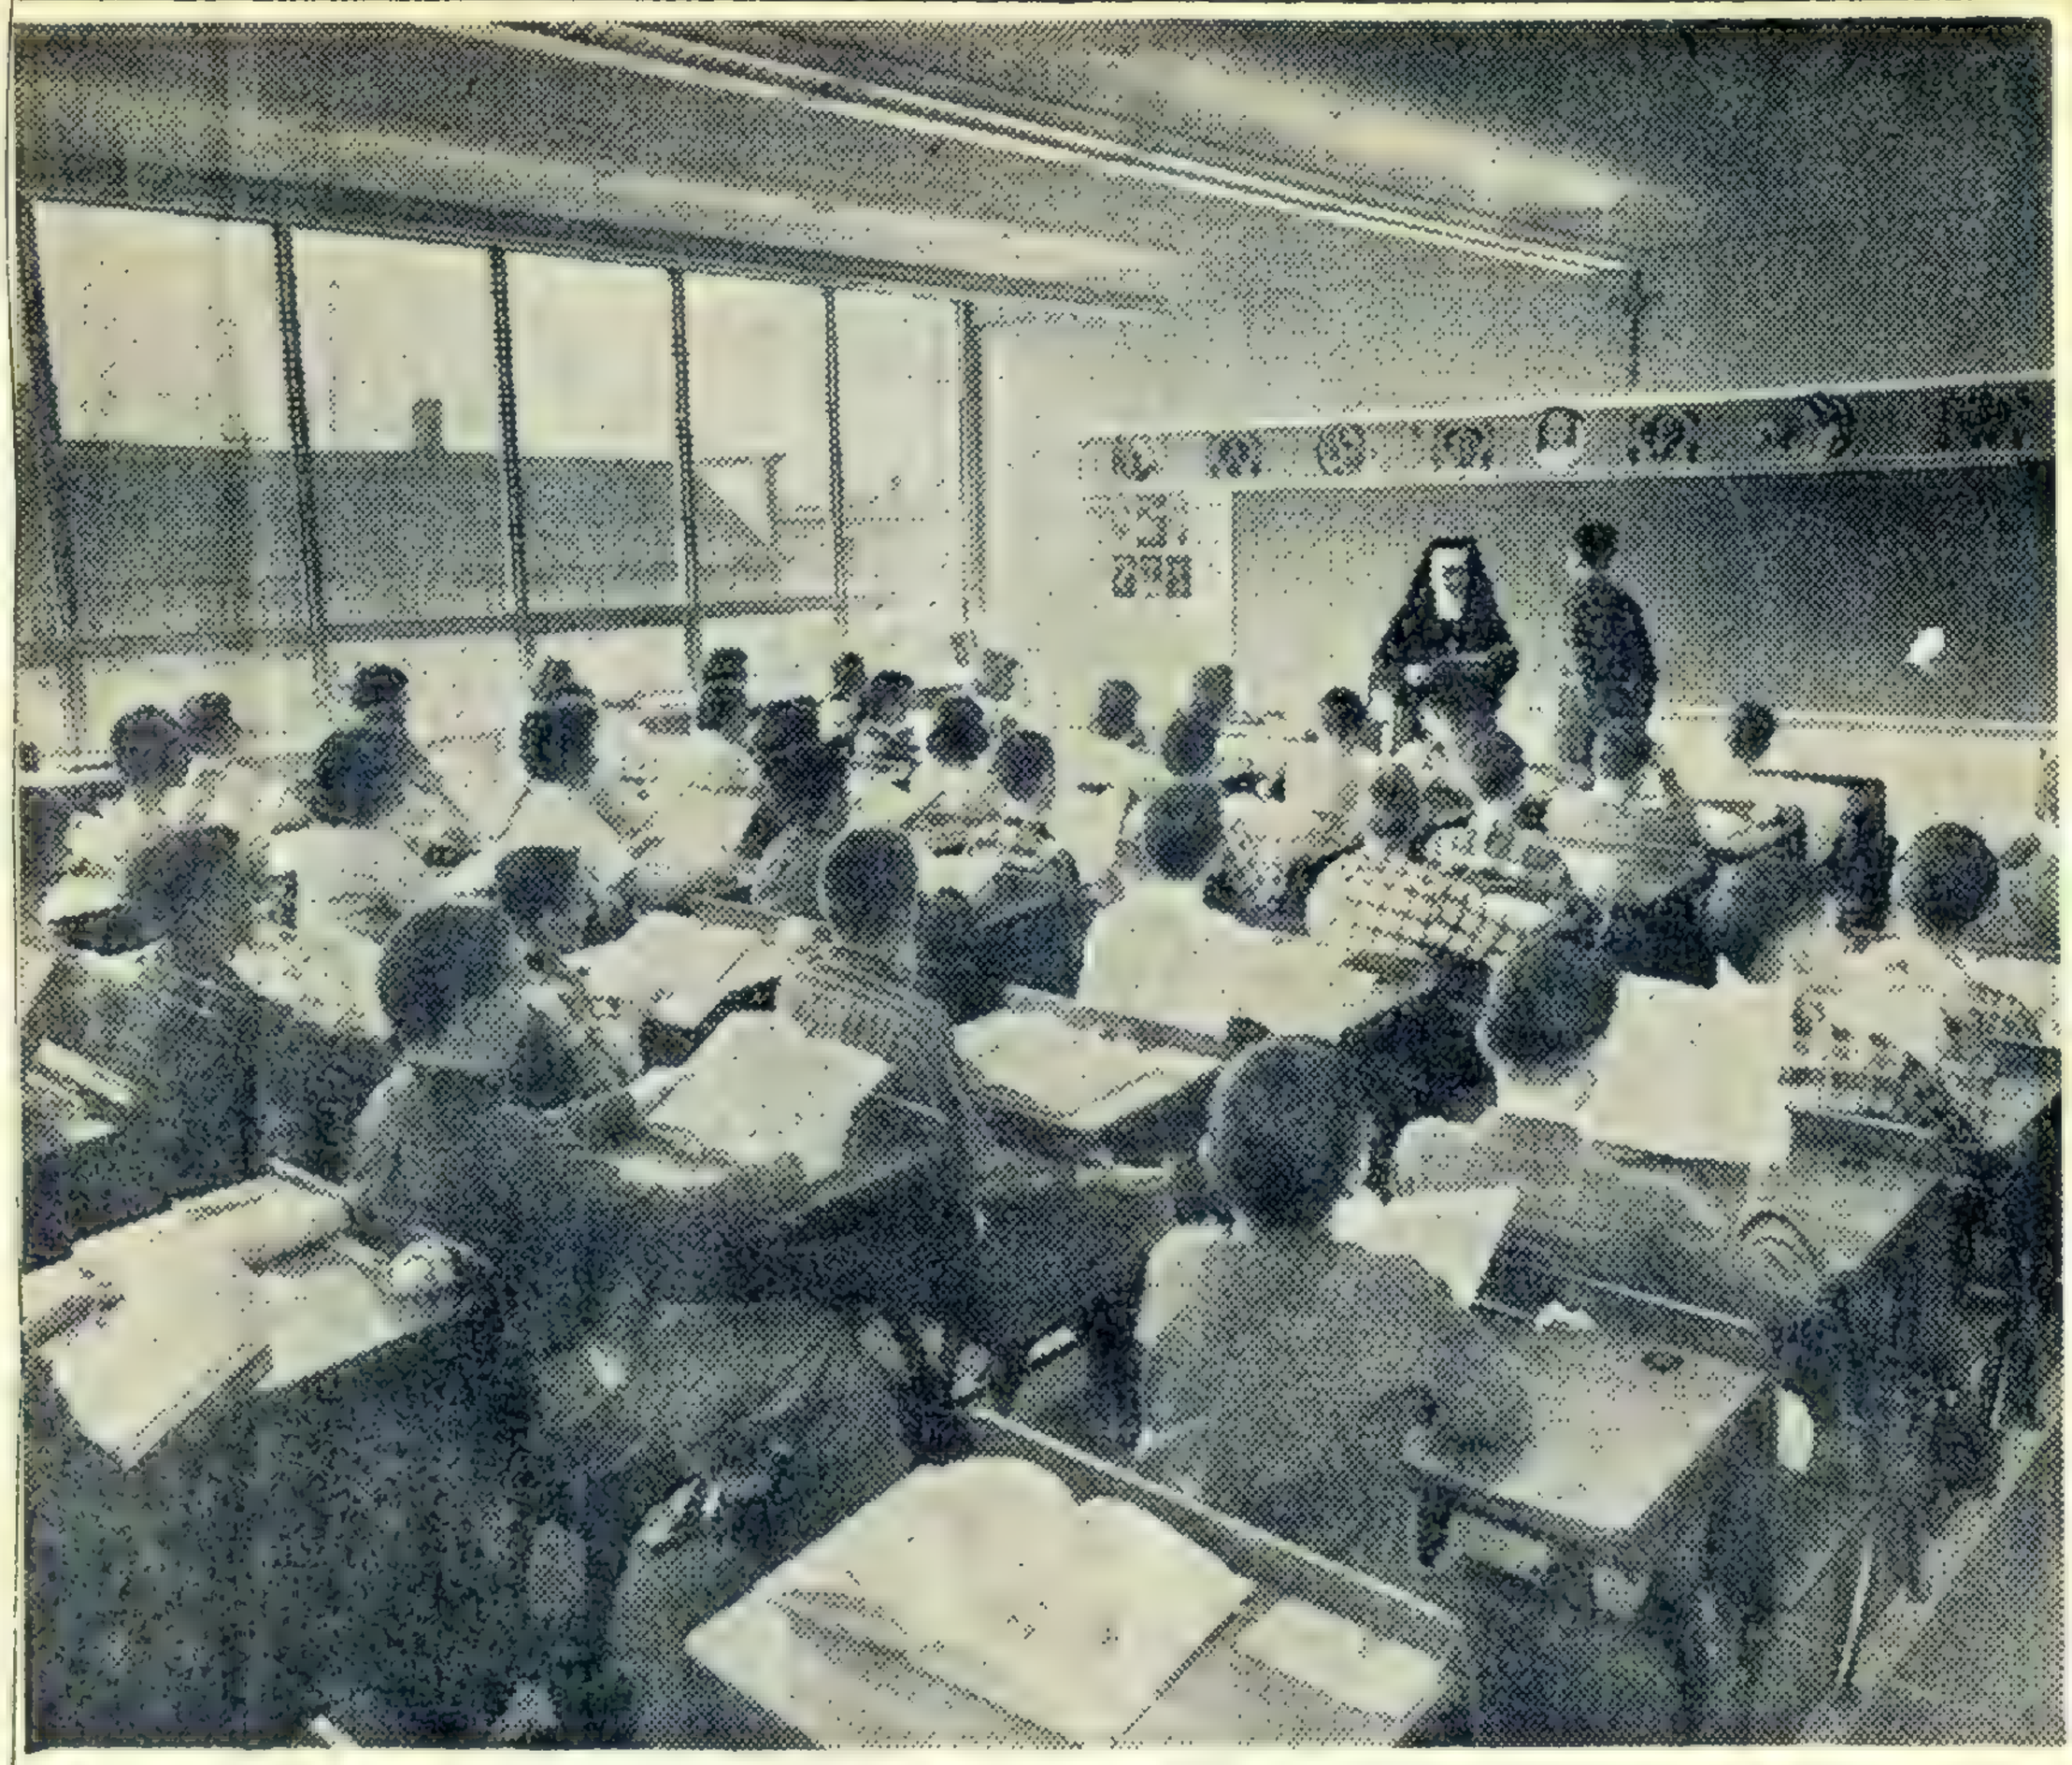
Assisting at the blessing, dedication and confirmation will be the Rev. Edward Nowakowski, former assistant pastor now at Armstrong Creek, and the Rev. Mark Schmitt. About 25 area priests will be in attendance.

NEW ST. MARY SCHOOL — Culmination of a long building program at St. Mary Catholic Church Parish, Manitowoc, will take place at 3 p. m. Sunday when the new $530,000, 14-classroom school will be blessed and dedicated. Officiating will be Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona of the Green Bay Diocese. This is a view of the tri-level school building which has made use of glass for maximum natural light and is looking southeast with St. Mary Church in the background. Note the two crosses. They are set in mosaic and illuminated at night. (Photos by staff photographer)

The doors opened and he was bounced to the floor of the car. Swanson suffered a slight scratch on his face. Lester Bartman, Milwaukee, the conductor, and Swanson were riding in the seventh car. Bartman was not injured.

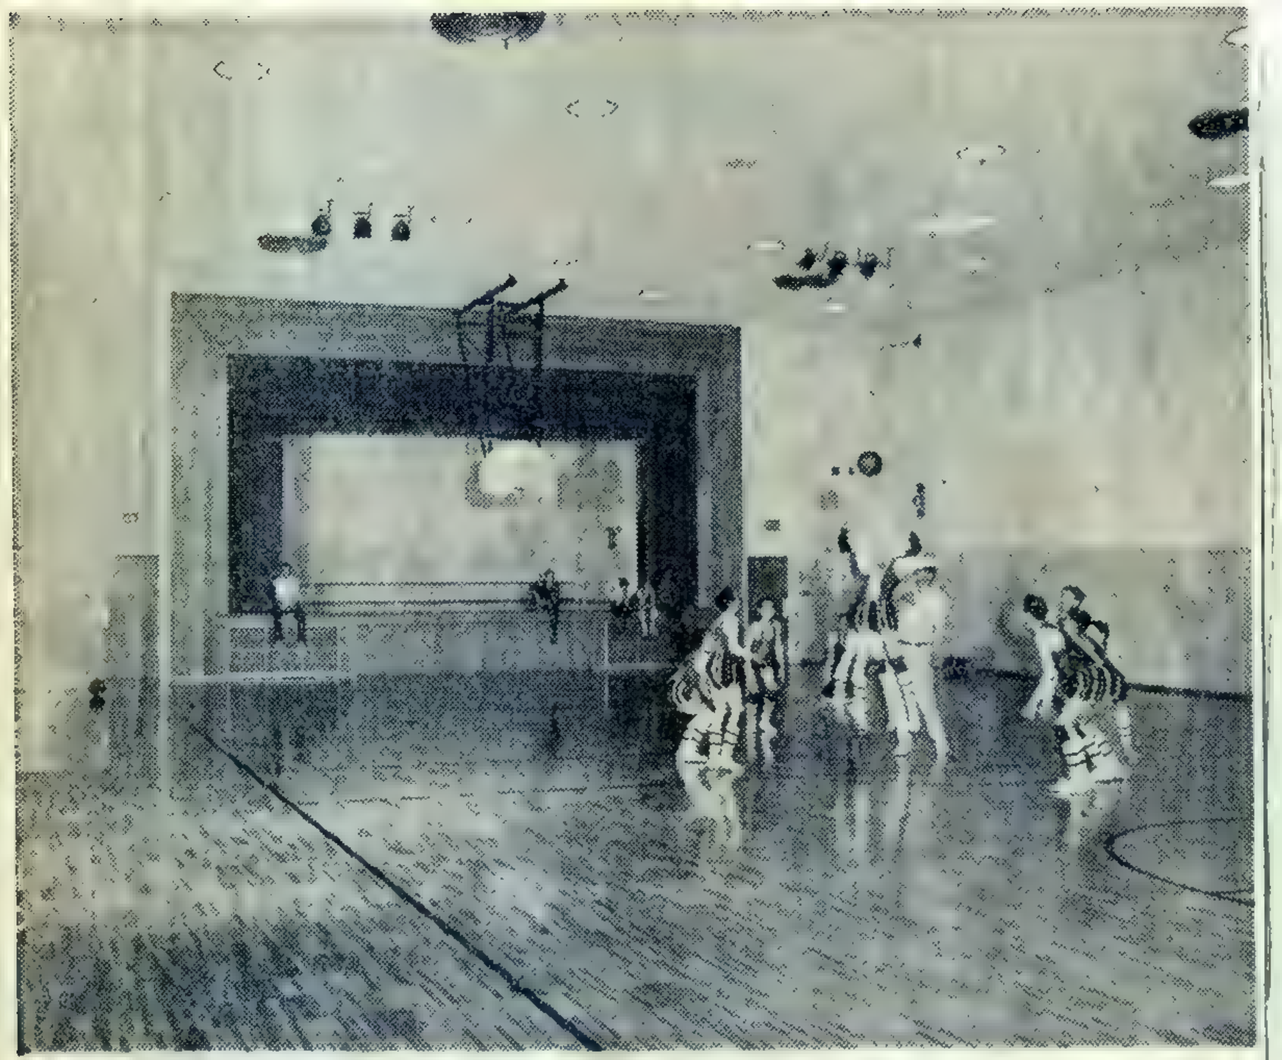
One locomotive of the three-unit deisel engine turned completely around and one of the cars landed on its side in a ditch. Most of the cars stayed upright.

The train left the tracks in a sparsley populated area near West Waterford Avenue between South 10th and 13th streets.



MODERN CLASSROOM—This is one of the 14 new classrooms which children at St. Mary School are using. Everything is designed for their comfort and to make the teaching of subjects easier. Note the large windows.

RECREATION ROOM—This is a portion of the large recreation room available for use of members of St. Mary Young Men's Club which has been an integral part of the parish since 1932. The room is 80 feet long and has all the necessary equipment for a club. The room is west of the gymnasium on the first level of the multi-level building.



PRIDE OF THE SCHOOL—This gymnasium is the pride of St. Mary parishioners. It is the only one of its kind in parochial schools in the city and is 58 by 80 feet, has a 23-foot ceiling and a full-size stage. Equipment includes a built-in speaker system, electric lifts for the basketball backboards, air conditioning and a light dimming system.

La Rosa and Meyer Wedding to be April 7

MANITOWOC — The Rev. Joseph A. Rauch, pastor of St. Ann Catholic Church at Francis Creek, said Monday that singer Julius LaRosa and Miss Rosemary (Rory) Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Meyer of Rockwood, will be married at a nuptial mass celebrated by Father Rauch at St. Ann Church at 11 a.m. Saturday, April 7.

Julius La Rosa To Wed Former AGM Employee

Caron Meyer, Filing Dept. and Carol Meyer, Payroll, soon will become sister-in-laws of Julius La-Rosa, nationally famous singing star.

Their sister, Rosemary, secretary of Perry Como, and Mr. LaRosa will be married at St. Ann's Catholic Church at Francis Creek, Wisconsin on April 7.

In an interview with Carol, she states,

"Jule is a grand fellow. We at home all love him very much. Visiting our home recently, we found him most congenial and interesting. In fact he was just one of the family after we all got to know him. Although 'Jule' and Rosemary spent most of their time making plans for their wedding, they found time to do a little ice fishing at Sturgeon Bay.

Rosemary Meyer was employed in our Stenographic Dept. in 1949 shortly before leaving for New York City.

County Girl's Engagement to Julius La Rosa Is Told

Wed January 4, 1956

'Rory' Meyer of Rockwood to Wed Singer

Performer Godfrey Fired on Broadcast to be Bridegroom

MANITOWOC — Singer Julius La Rosa and a Manitowoc County girl who could double for Ava Gardner are engaged.

News of the singer's engagement to Rosemary Meyer, 25, was not made public until Wednesday, but La Rosa slipped the ring on her finger New Year's Eve. Rosemary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Meyer of Rockwood, heard the news on Sylvester Eve from the couple who telephoned from New York but did not announce it.

No date has been set for the wedding.

La Rosa, who bounced into the headlines when he was fired from Arthur Godfrey's television show, met Miss Meyer through a mutual friend last February.

Rosemary — Rory to her friends in the East — has been in New York City the past five years.

The girl's father came to the editorial office of The Herald - Times Wednesday morning to announce the engagement, at about the same time the story was being transmitted to newspapers all over the United States from the New York bureau of The Associated Press.

He said that his daughter and Julius had telephoned from the La Rosa home to tell her parents of the engagement. Everyone was "pretty excited," he said.

LA ROSA AND COUNTY GIRL ENGAGED—Julius La Rosa (left), an Arthur Godfrey "find," and Miss Rosemary Meyer, a Manitowoc County girl, were engaged New Year's Eve. Miss Meyer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Meyer, of Rt. 5, Manitowoc, were notified that evening when the young couple called them from the La Rosa home in New York City. No date for the wedding has been set. This picture of the couple was taken early in October of last year in Chicago when La Rosa, a talented singer, staged a surprise birthday party for Rosemary at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. The Meyer family was present.

Not Greatly Surprised.

"We weren't too surprised," Meyer said. "We sort of had a hunch. Rory was home for Christmas, you know. And last fall, Julius phoned and asked us to come to Chicago for a surprise birthday party he was giving for Rory down there. We met him then. He's a wonderful fellow."

La Rosa was singing at a Chicago theater in October and telephone the Meyers to be present at the party he had planned for Rory at the Conrad-Hilton Hotel. Miss Meyer flew from New York.

Mrs. Meyer said that her daughter hinted of the engagement during the Christmas holidays.

"Julius wanted to be with us when Rosemary was home but he had benefit commitments and could not come," she said. She added that he will be away from New York City for several weeks to fulfill several contractual engagements and then may come to Rockwood for a visit.

Rumors of the engagement had been heard in the city and Rockwood. "People even called us and told us they had information that Rosemary was going to be married last summer," Mrs. Meyer said. "One neighbor even told us where the flowers had been ordered."

When the news came New Year's Eve Mr. Meyer had to be called from a new home he is building just south of the present residence. It is a ranch type structure and will be ready for occupancy within several weeks.

Rosemary is the eldest of seven Meyer children. She has twin sisters, Carol and Caron, who will be 21 this month. They are employed in the office of the Aluminum Goods Mfg. Co. here. The oldest brother, John, 23, is home on leave from the Navy and will be discharged next month. He is married.

Brother Studying for Priesthood

Another brother, Clarence Jr., 18, is studying for the priesthood at St. Lawrence College, Mount Calvary, and the other boys, Ronald, 13, and James, 10, are students at St. Ann Catholic School at Francis Creek.

Miss Meyer also attended St. Ann school and was graduated from Lincoln High School here in 1948. She was a secretary in the Goods office for more than a year and then went East, enrolling at Columbia University to study psychology and liberal arts. She dropped her studies to become a receptionist for United Airlines at LaGuardia Field and while thus employed took time out for a several months' trip to Europe.

Several years ago she became secretary for singer Perry Como.

Rory's father says she likes the out of doors and enjoys skiing, frequently going to Lake Placid. "She also likes music, reading and is quite an accomplished artist," he added.

Miss Meyer won a publicity contest in New York City last year as the girl most similar in appearance to film star Ava Gardner. She was chosen from a field of 500 in the contest sponsored by the Capitol Theater in that city. She attended the premiere of the picture "The Barefoot Contessa" with Miss Gardner.

New York Papers Call

Both Mr. and Mrs. Meyer were excited Wednesday. The father, a crane rigger at the Manitowoc Engineering Works for 15 years, gave up his sleep — he is on the night shift — to bring the news to the newspaper office. Mrs. Meyer was busy at home at Rockwood answering the telephone. After the Associated Press announcement she had two calls in succession from New York newspapers. Each paper wanted pictures of their daughter. They said they could not locate Rory. Miss Meyer did not appear for work and was not to be found by other reporters.

Dorothy McGuire, another Godfrey singer, was La Rosa's heart interest two years ago when he was fired by Godfrey during a broadcast. Miss McGuire was married to an Air Force sergeant and La Rosa said he wanted to marry her if she could gain her freedom.

Godfrey said he fired LaRosa for a lack of "humility" and denied it was an attempt to break up La Rosa's romance with Dorothy.

Later Godfrey helped patch up things between Dorothy and her husband, John Henry Brown, but the couple split up last fall again and both filed for divorce in Florida charging cruelty.

A Godfrey Discovery

Last month Miss McGuire said she was "definitely not" seeking her divorce because of La Rosa or any other man.

La Rosa, 26, gained fame as an Arthur Godfrey discovery. The famed television and radio personality first noticed the youth baritone singing in an armed services show while La Rosa was serving with the U. S. Coast Guard.

Following his discharge, La Rosa became a regular member of the Godfrey "family", appearing on television and radio. He was the first of the "little Godfreys" to gain fame when he was fired from the shows.

Immediately afterwards he was hired by Ed Sullivan, master of ceremonies of a Sunday night variety show. La Rosa's salary zoomed and he broke attendance records at theaters across the nation in a tour which coincided with the publicity his discharge received.

Since that time La Rosa has appeared as a guest star regularly on the Sullivan show and recorded a number of hit records.

LA ROSA HERE TO MEET FIANCEE'S FOLKS—Julius La Rosa, baritone star of television, and his fiancee, Rosemary (Rory) Meyer, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Meyer of Rockwood. They hope to be married at Rory's home parish, St. Ann Church at Rockwood. Meanwhile, Julie explains, he wants to get to know Rory's family, get some rest, and enjoy getting away from New York. Julius, Rory Hope to Marry in Church at Francis Creek

Tues. Feb. 7, 1956

Boyhood Friend to be Best Man

By JOSEPH BOYD

MANITOWOC — "Hello, I'm Julie LaRosa." With a direct introduction and a handshake, America's popular young baritone began an interview Monday afternoon at the Rockwood home of his fiancee, Miss Rosemary (Rory) Meyer.

What is the answer to the big question — will they be married here?

"Well, we hope to be," Julie said, "Rory goes to St. Ann Church at Francis Creek. That's why we came — to make plans." There will be no announcement of the date and locale of the marriage until LaRosa and his fiancee have consulted her family and the Rev. Joseph Rauch, pastor of St. Ann Church.

"One thing I can tell. I've known for 21 years who my best man will be — my friend and boyhood companion Joey St. George." LaRosa and his friend made their acquaintance in a Brooklyn kindergarten in 1935 and have been the "legendary boyhood friends" ever since.

Rory, a 25-year-old brunette who could double for Ava Gardner, hasn't invited her attendants yet. In fact, she hasn't even bought her trousseau.

What do they plan to do with their time here? Julie countered with a question, "Are you married? What did you do before the wedding? You sat with her family, got to know them, made your arrangements?"

First off, though, they plan to get some rest. Julie said they left New York at 6 a.m. Saturday, drove all day to Akron, Ohio. Pennsylvania was rough. "We hit a 40 mile stretch that was just sheer ice. I'll bet we didn't make over 20 miles per hour."

Guests at Monastery

At Akron they were overnight guests at a Carmelite Monastery. LaRosa's black convertible rolled into the drive of the Clarence J. Meyers' new brick ranch home at Rockwood at 7 p.m. Sunday. "We collapsed — just collapsed. I'm an eight-hours-of-sleep guy," Julie explained.

Both of them looked fresh Monday afternoon, after snoozing until 11 a.m. LaRosa is a handsome, well-muscled man of 26. His curly dark hair is close cropped, his brown eyes are direct and sincere. He wore a gray V-necked sweater with a turtle neck bib, matching grey flannels, ribbed socks and loafers when he appeared for an interview in Meyers' living room.

Rory wore a draped lavender jersey and a charcoal flannel skirt belted in back above the knees when she joined him later. A pear-shaped diamond flashed on her ring finger. What carat is the stone "It's the thought behind it that counts, not the size," Julie grinned.

He slipped the ring on her finger last New Year's Eve, during the last minutes of the old year. Rory didn't get to exercise her Leap Year privileges, did she "No, I've always figured that's a man's job," Julie said.

How about their honeymoon plans? "We haven't planned the honeymoon yet," Julie said. "We know it won't be an extended one. As soon as I can get leave of absence from my committments, we'll get married and take a long driving trip somewhere?" The TV favorite said he has kept his schedule pretty clear for the next few months to allow time for their marriage and wedding trip.

Leaving Thursday

They plan to stay here until Thursday, then it's back to New York where Julie will resume his singing career and Rory will return to crooner Perry Como's office. "I'm his personal secretary," Rory explained. "Yes, I handle his correspondence and appointments. No, there's not too much connection with his TV show. He has an adequate staff to take care of most of that."

Television definitely is Julie's favorite entertainment medium. It is better, he says, than night club work or personal appearances.

What about movies. "Well," Julie admitted, "I've toyed with the idea." A few years ago he was offered a screen test by a Hollywood studio which had him in mind for a musical role. But before the test was made the studio abruptly reversed production plans and cancelled all musicals.

"They still offered me the test," Julie added, "but we decided against it at that time. If another role comes up, they will just have to make another one anyway. But since that time I've toyed with the idea. It would be a challenge. Today, generally, a movie role rounds out a performer. In that way, I guess I'm not rounded out yet. I've never made a picture."

Right now Julie's career is entering a new phase. His first recording for RCA Victor, "Candy, Lipstick and Rubber Soled Shoes," has just been released.

'Just Got Real Lucky'

It is already a smashing success with his niece, Lillian Catarella, daughter of his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Catarella. "Who are you singing 'Lipstick and Rubby Soled Shoes' for?" the four year-old demands.

That brings up the subject of children. "We hope for as many as we are blessed with," Julie said expansively. Julie is one of two children. Rory has brothers and sisters. Jimmie is 10. Ronnie is 13. Clarence Jr., who is in the seminary, is 19. The twins, Carol and Caron, are 21.

The young singer feels it is hard for him to offer advice to young singers. There was a lot of "plain, old-fashioned luck" involved in his success.

nounced, several of Julie's buddies sneaked into his room and left a note commending their singing friend. It led to an interview in Godfrey's rooms — "I really made tracks — fast tracks" — and an invitation to come see him after his discharge.

The rest is television history, including the famous firing episode. "That's all in the past," Julie said. "That's two years ago and I'm in good shape today." He credits his manager, Frank Barone, with much of his success. "He is the cream of the crop — a man who is so far and above the general conception of a manager. He's a sensitive and perceptive man."

Even after Godfrey's sudden public firing, Julie said he was never without direction. "I am surrounded by people who are interested in my happiness first, ther. in my career."

Returning to advice to singing hopefuls, Julie said, "I can offer only two words, and they may sound trite — 'Be yourself.' " His own candor is obvious when he discusses unsuccessful phases of his career.

Poor Publicity

Shortly after he was fired from the Godfrey show, he appeared in a popular concert at Milwaukee. "It was a debacle," he said bluntly. He takes the blame for an occasional unflattering interview, too. Once in Milwaukee a newspaperman burst into his hotel room while he was clad only in his shorts. Julie's attitude was pretty curt. "I think I can be the most uncharitable guy in the world sometimes," he grinned. The resulting interview revealed a cocky youngster. "He was right — to him I was cocky," Julie admitted.

Rory returned from the kitchen with tea and lemon for her fiance. He is suffering from a stuffy cold at the moment. As she offered coffee to the guests, she was asked about her Italian cooking. "I haven't tried it," she answered in mock despair. "It seems very complicated."

They posed on the sofa in the Meyer living room, a popular singer and a pretty secretary. Does Julie have a girl secretary too? "Yes, he does," Rory said. "If she ever meets a singer I'll belt her!" Julie laughed.

"Ive been singing all my life," he said, "but I never believed I would be a singer. That's stuff from Horatio Alger books. I just got real lucky.

"My first introduction was in the All City Chorus in New York. That's the cream of the high school crop." He recalled how the vocal director auditioned him.

Julie's famed baritone rose in the Meyers' living room as he recalled a few bars of Carrie Jacobs Bond's "Just A Song At Twilight." The director asked, "Why haven't you come before?" Julie answered honestly, "I just never thought I'd make it." But he did. Red tape was cut and Julie was hustled into the All City Chorus.

Four Years in Navy

During rehearsal of Cole Porter's "Begin the Beguine" the baritones weren't getting one phrase right. The director asked each of them to sing it individually. Julie's turn came. "That's just the way I want you boys to sing!", the director cried.

"That's when I knew I was going to be a singer!" Julie said.

Soon he was graduated from high school, with a diploma in liberal arts. With no vocational training and little idea what he wanted to do professionally, Julie tried several jobs, They weren't right.

"My father was in the Navy during the war. I remembered the good things he used to say about it. So, with my parents permission, I joined up. I did a four year stretch, from the time I was 17 until I was 21. That's quite a long time, quite an important time of life."

In the Navy, Julie said he "learned to attain self-responsibility. One of the greatest things was becoming aware of the importance of your family, your mother and your father." He also learned a trade — radio repair and operation.

But all the while he was singing. At Pensacola, Fla., Julie recalled, "I was stationed aboard the USS Wright. I became known all over the base as 'The Kid from the Wright Who Sings.' "

Interview With Godfrey

When Arthur Godfrey's appearance at the naval base was announced, several of Julie's buddies sneaked into his room and left a note commending their singing friend. It led to an interview in Godfrey's rooms — "I really made tracks — fast tracks" — and an invitation to come see him after his discharge.

LaRosa and his fiancee

Miss Meyer Is Giving Up Job

MANITOWOC — Rosemary (Rory) Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Meyer of Rockwood, who accepted an engagement ring from singer Julius LaRosa in New York City New Year's eve, plans to quit her job to learn cooking and other wifely chores.

Miss Meyer has been private secretary for Perry Como, another singer, the past two years.

Interviewed in New York Thursday the striking brunette commented that "being a good wife will take all my time and I've got a lot of things to prepare for such as learning to cook."

"I'm going to be a wife not a 'Broadway wife' or a 'television wife'. Heaven forbid.

"I have never wanted to be a performer. I love show business and music and love the excitement of being Mr. Como's secretary. But I never wanted to switch from being just a secretary to something important on a policy level and anything silly like that.

"If I learn to be proficient in the job of being a wife, I'll be doing more for Julie's career than by interfering with cameramen and writers and directors and producers," she said.

LaRosa had something to say too. He said jestingly that he and his bride-to-be "might have our first argument about setting the wedding date."

"If it was up to me," La Rosa told newsmen in New York "I'd be married tomorrow. But she's more sensible I guess. She worries about details and that sort of thing."

LaRosa said he hoped to have as many children "as we are blessed with". Both LaRosa and Miss Meyer are Roman Catholics.

The singer would not comment on whether Arthur Godfrey, who fired him from a television show, would be invited to the wedding.

"Rory will take care of all the invitations," he said. "I'll leave that up to her."

'Fame Has Come to Manitowoc' With Rory Meyer-Julius La Rosa Betrothal

MANITOWOC — "Fame has come to Manitowoc."

Those were the words of an Associated Press reporter Wednesday. He made them when he called the news room of The Herald-Times to gather additional information on the engagement of Miss Rosemary Meyer of Rockwood to Julius La Rosa, the baritone singer of considerable fame.

The engagement of New Year's Eve was not announced until Wednesday morning at New York City. Almost simultaneously, Rosemary's father, Clarence J. Meyer, was at the newspaper office giving the details to reporters. Mr. Meyer said he wanted his "home town" paper to have the news first. He came in as the AP's Milwaukee bureau was querying The Herald-Times for more background on the Manitowoc County girl and was interviewed by the reporter for the world-wide news agency.

Subsequently the AP carried additional ads to the first story it had filed out of New York, mainly because of the "copy" it had obtained by talking with Mr. Meyer.

La Rosa proposed to Rosemary — Rory as she has been called by her New York City friends — on New Year's Eve at the home of his parents at Mount Vernon, N. Y.

According to a spokesman for La Rosa, the young singer offered Miss Meyer a ring while she was phoning her parents at Rockwood.

"She took the ring and put it on and that was it," the spokesman said.

Rumors Heard Earlier

There were hints of the romance blossoming into a proposal before the Sylvester Eve event. First intimation of Rory's romance with La Rosa, 26, came during June of 1955, when the baritone sent corsages to the sisters and mother at Rockwood. Rory, at home at the time for a visit, received roses.

Since then there have been frequent reports of marriage. On several occasions the parents have been called by friends who asserted they had it "on good authority" that Rory and Julius were going to get married. Only the locale differed — some saying it would be at St. Ann Catholic Church at Francis Creek and others contending it would be at Holy Innocents here. One informant was positive she knew a local florist who was to supply the flowers.

The story — a natural in newspaper jargon — quickly caught the fancy of papers all over the country. Mrs. Meyer was called twice by New York metropolitan dailies, all seeking more details since La Rosa was not to be found and Rory had secluded herself. She didn't show up for work Wednesday at Perry Como's office. She is the singer's secretary.

Every daily in Wisconsin carried the account. The Chicago press "glommed onto" the yarn. Irv Kupcinet, columnist for the Chicago Sun-Times, was not content with the United Press story and called La Rosa via long distance phone. La Rosa told the colunist he and Rory are planning a spring wedding.

Godfrey Won't be Best Man

"But the date isn't definite," he said. "The only one thing that is definite is that Arthur Godfrey won't be my best man!" (The Brooklyn-born singer was fired in October, 1953, by Godfrey for a lack of "humility.")

La Rosa introduced Rory to Chicago pals, Kup's Column reports, last October. "He was appearing at the Chicago Theater at the time and she came here from New York for the dual purpose of celebrating her birthday and visiting Julius. Her parents came down from their home in Manitowoc, Wis., for the party."

(The Meyers live at Rockwood, about seven miles west and north of Manitowoc, where they are completing work on a new ranch type home which will be ready for occupancy within several weeks.)

Kupcinet continued:

"The report that La Rosa met Rory on a blind date isn't quite accurate. 'I had seen her around CBS a couple of times and whistled to myself because of her beauty,' he explained. 'Then a mutual friend phoned her and tried to arrange a date for me, but Rory said no. So I phoned her myself — and she said yes. From there our romance blossomed' . . .

Next Number Wedding March

"La Rosa also took time to laugh at a published report that he is splitting with his manager, Frank Barone. 'Tain't so. Barone is his closest friend, as well as manager."

The United Press described Miss Meyer, 25, as a striking brown-eyed brunette. The UP lead to the announcement of the engagement carried by the Chicago Daily News began this way:

"Julius La Rosa, a baritone who shot to fame on a swan song, announced Wednesday that his next big number would be a wedding march."

All the Chicago papers carried either Rory's or Julius' picture with the announcement and all of the papers except The Tribune played the story on page one. The Tribune's story was on page 5.

The Chicago American used the same picture which appeared in The Herald-Times. Its story was bylined. Jack O'Brian, the New York Journal-American radio and TV writer assembled the details into a story.

He reported that Rory met Julius last February on a blind date when La Rosa "couldn't think of anyone" to escort to the performance of another Godfrey graduate. Marion Marlowe, at the Hotel Pierre's Cotillion Room.

O'Brian said "that conventional 'date,' preceded by proper introductions, was followed by almost a year in which Julius hardly looked at any other young lady.

'Familiar, Beautiful Face'

"Outside of one 'date' with movie star Dorothy Malone, it has been Rory all the time.

"La Rosa's previous romance was with Godfrey singer Dorothy McGuire, which ended when she made up with her estranged husband."

The columnist said in his story:

"A familiar, beautiful face to many persons in show business because of Como's prominence, Rory is usually described as 'a lady-like Ava Gardner'.

"The similarity was emphasized more than a year ago when Ava's movie, 'The Barefoot Contessa,' opened, and a contest was held to find 'a double for Ava Gardner'.

"Someone in her office secretly sent Rory's photograph and she won first prize. Reluctant to accept the honor, she finally went through with it, but emphatically turned down movie tests from MGM, United Artists and other major studios."

Rosemary was graduated from Lincoln High School here in 1948, where she was an honor student and elected to membership in the National Honor Society. She transferred from Rockwood High School, since discontinued. During her junior year she was a flower girl for the traditional outdoor formal graduation ceremonies at Lincoln, and she also served on a class play committee that year.

During her free time at school she helped out in the Guidance office.

The Meyer family all of a sudden has found that an engagement can become much more than a formal social event between two people. The romance has caught the attention of the nation and the Meyers have been engulfed in the attendant publicity.

Meanwhile, Manitowoc County is learning where Rockwood is located on the county map.

WHO'S NERVOUS?—Best man Joey St. George adjusted Julie's stock before the ceremony. "What's everybody so nervous for?" Julie asked, obviously nervous himself.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE—Julie helped his bride through the altar rail gate as they approached the altar of the church where they were joined in matrimony by the Rev. Robert Perella, a personal friend of Julie's. Rory's father, Clarence J. Meyer Sr., lifted her veil and kissed her before giving her hand to the groom.

Groom's Friends Assist Father Rauch in Rites

FRANCIS CREEK — The Rev. Joseph Rauch pastor of St. Ann Catholic Church, who has been Rory's spiritual advisor since she was the first baby he baptized when he came to Francis Creek in 1930, was celebrant at the solemn nuptial high Mass Saturday morning when she became the bride of Julius LaRosa.

The Rev. Robert Perella, a Franciscan priest from New York City and a close friend of the bridegroom, performed the marriage ceremony and was deacon of the Mass.

Sub-deacon was another friend, the Rev. Mario Dittami, of the Carmelite Order in Akron, Ohio.

Rory's brothers and friends of the Meyer family also assisted at the altar. Arthur McManus of Rockwood was master of ceremonies. Acolytes were Ronnie Meyer, 13, and Michael McManus, 12, of Rockwood. Serving as thurifer was Clarence J. Meyer Jr., 20, a seminarian at St. Lawrence College, Mt. Calvary, Wis.

Music for the nuptial Mass was provided by the 16 member St. Ann Choir directed by Miss Lydia Miller, church organist. During the offertory, the choir sang "Ave Maria" by Biggs and at Communion, George Gosz of Polifka's Corners, a friend of the Meyer family sang "Panis Agelicus" by Cesar Franck. After the Mass and before the recessional, Rory presented a bouquet at the altar of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Gosz, a tenor, sang "Mother At Thy Feet is Kneeling" during this presentation.

The pews of St. Ann Church were marked with white satin bows and flowers for the ceremony. The altar was banked with arrangements and standards of all-white flowers, including 'mums, stock and snapdragons. Palms, and candelabra completed the church decorations. Albert Weber of Hamilton Flowers, Manitowoc, designed the bouquests and corsages for the bridal party and members of the immediate families.

CHURCH FILLED, OVERFLOWING—Approximately 400 invited guests pressed into the St. Ann Catholic Church for the wedding. It has normal seating capacity of about 300. The church was newly redecorated for the wedding. Rory was baptized, confirmed and made her first communion there.

Wedding Dress Fashioned of White Lace, Nylon Tulle

FRANCIS CREEK — The wedding dress which Rory Meyer wore when she exchanged marriage vows with Julius LaRosa at St. Ann Catholic Church this morning, was fashioned of white French chantilly lace and nylon tulle.

The scoop neckline was detailed with lace and the bouffant skirt was appliqued with lace medallions. A wide flounce of accordion pleated lace in the skirt swept into a chapel-length train.

Her finger-tip length veil was caught to a Juliette style hat of matching lace and she also wore matching lace gauntlets.

Her flowers were a circle of amazon lilies and stephanotis centered with a white orchid. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

The ring which Julius slipped on her finger during the ceremony was a plain platium band, octagon style. His ring is a yellow gold wedding band.

For her going-away costume, Rory selected a deep rose, softly tailored suit with a short fitted jacket and a pleated skirt. Over the suit, she wears a straight oriental style navy blue coat and navy blue tailored straw hat trimmed with white. Her slippers, gloves, and handbag are navy blue and her corsage is the white orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Sisters Participate

Rory's sister, Caron, of Rockwood, served as maid of honor and preceded the bride down the white carpeted aisle.

Bridesmaids were Caron's twin sister, Carol, and a cousin, Miss Leone Meyer of Whitelaw.

The three attendants were gowned alike in simple ballerina length dresses of white lace over pink taffeta. The tightly fitted bodices had scoop necklines and tapered, three-quarter length sleeves. The bell shaped skirts were topped with wide cummerbunds of pink taffeta.

They completed their ensembles with pink opera pumps and hair bands of pink velvet with matching face veils of tulle. Their cascade bouquets were made up of shell-pink demure sweetheart roses and stephanotis, and were tied with white ribbon streamers.

The little flower girl was the bridegroom's four year old niece, Lillian Catarella, who came from Pallisades Park, N.J., to be in her uncle's wedding party. She wore a light pink, full length nylon net dress and a pink velvet headband with a tulle face veil. She carried a little colonial bouquet of delicate pink demure sweetheart roses.

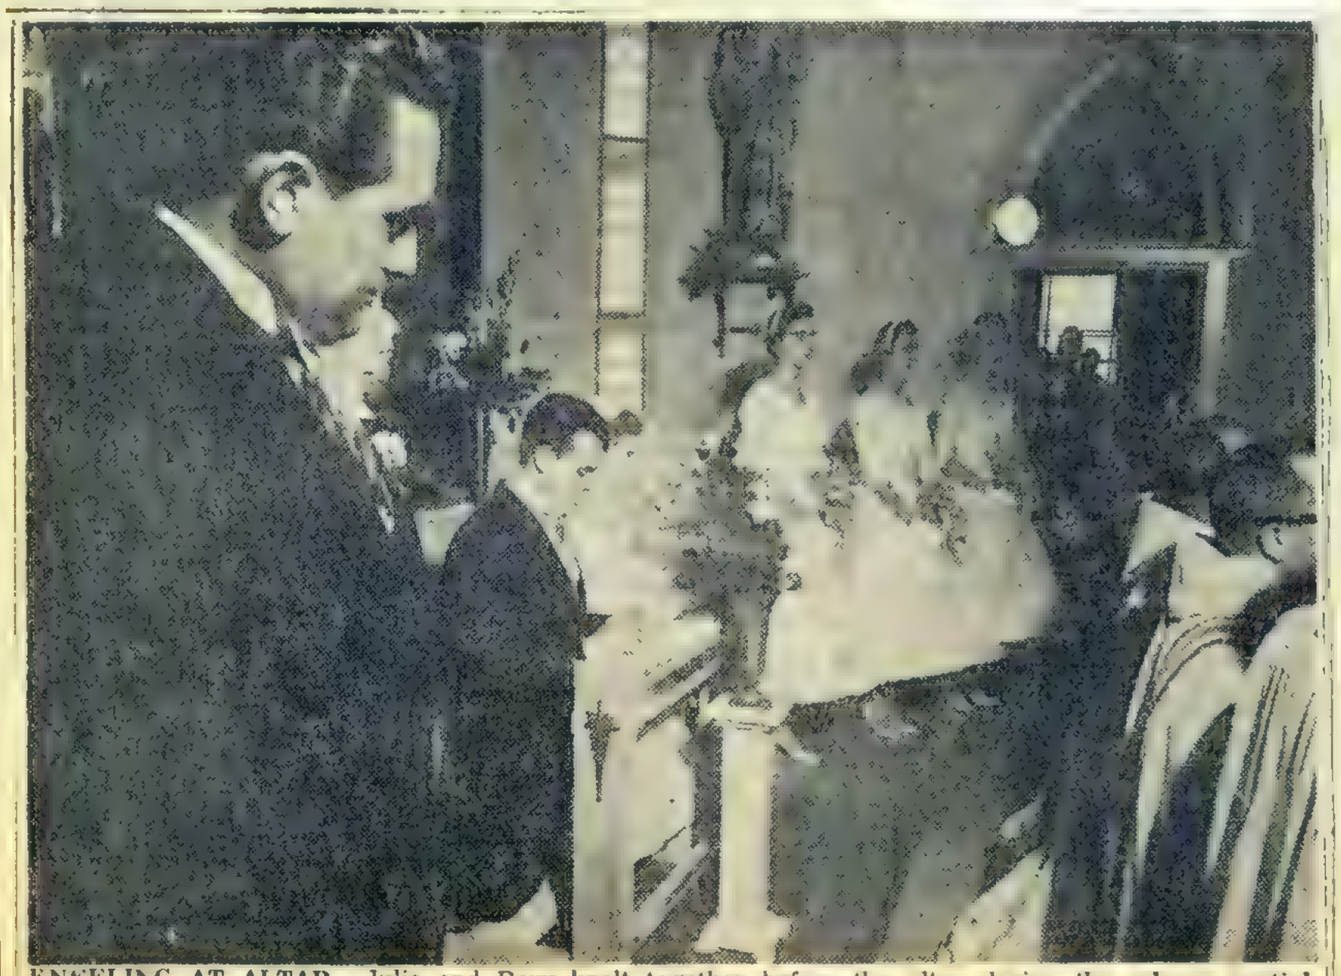
St. George Is Best Man

Best man was the bridegroom's boyhood friend, Joey St. George, of New York City. Groomsmen were Nino Maggio and Peter Ingoglia of New York City, friends of the bridegroom.

Serving as ushers were two of Rory's cousins, William and Kenneth Meyer of Whitelaw, and two friends of the Meyer family from Rockwood, Frank Gosz Jr., and Frank Massman. The men in the wedding party wore formal morning attire.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Carence J. Meyer, of Rockwood wore a dusty pink crepe street length dress with lace inserts. Her accessories were blue. Mrs. Salvatore LaRosa, Mt. Vernon, New York, who arrived in Manitowoc Thursday evening for her son's wedding, wore a champagne colored dress. Both mothers had corsages of white cymbidium orchids.

MRS. JULIUS LAROSA—Miss Rosemary Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Meyer of Rockwood, was married at 11 a. m. Saturday in St. Ann Catholic Church, Francis Creek, to Julius LaRosa, famous singer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore LaRosa of Mt. Vernon, New York. The couple will reside in New York City. (Carleton photo)



KNEELING AT ALTAR—Julie and Rory knelt together before the altar during the solemn nuptial high Mass which followed the actual wedding ceremony. Rory's attendants included her twin sisters, Caron and Carol, and a cousin, Leone Meyer of Whitelaw. Julie was attended by Joey St. George, Peter Ingoglia and Nino Maggio, all boyhood friends from the east.

'WITH THIS RING'—Rory and Julie were married in a double-ring ceremony. Each placed the wedding ring on the other's finger, vowing to "take and wear this ring as a pledge of my fidelity." (Photos by staff photographer Daryl Cornick)

George Kaufman

Scoutmaster Heads Home

MANITOWOC — George Kaufman, active in scouting for more than 31 years, is en route home with his family from Philmont Scout Ranch, Cimarron, N. M., where he attended the national 1961 Town and Country Conference for scouters.

Kaufman, of 635 N. 10th St., was one of 90 scoutmasters recognized for outstanding service to youth and leadership in scouting's current "Strengthen America, Character Counts" program from among the nation's 1,300,000 volunteer leaders in the Boy Scouts of America.

This recognition brought with it a scholarship grant covering expenses for himself and his wife for attendance at the conference at the 127,000-acre Philmont Ranch. Scholarships were made available by Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The past four years Kaufman has served as scoutmaster of Troop 7 which is sponsored by Holy Name Society of Sacred Heart Catholic Church. He has served as a member of Waumegesako Council executive board, council commissioner, Catholic Committee on Scouting and other assignments.

Kaufman is employed by Manitowoc Shipbuilding Inc.

Ralph Scheuer Gets Scouting Silver Beaver

(Picture on Page 1)

MANITOWOC — Waumegesako Council's 30th Silver Beaver was presented Wednesday night to a Two Rivers man, a man who has worked for youth in the scouting program almost as long as the council has been organized.

He is Ralph Scheuer of 2409 Washington St.

Scheuer received the Silver Beaver, a coveted award bestowed only on those who have, over the years, given unselfishly of personal time and talent in behalf of the youth in scouting, at the annual appreciation banquet at Holy Innocents School hall.

The eulogy preceding the awarding of the medal was made by R. E. Klinkner of Two Rivers, a member of the Silver Beaver group, who also made the presentation, Mrs. Scheuer, a guest, was presented with an orchid.

Klinkner said Scheuer, "has been faithful in attendance and participation in all scout activities and has always followed through on many assignments" in connection with scouting.

From 1939 to the present, Scheuer has served on the council camping and activities committee; 1947-58 on the executive board; 1959 to date on advisory board; 1949-52 camp development committee; and 1951-52 on the nominating committee.

Sought No Personal Gain

Klinkner observed one of the outstanding attributes of Scheuer is that "he is a good scouter, working quietly for boys, without desire for personal gain or recognition."

The retired employe of Hamilton Mfg. Co. of Two Rivers where he was a chief engineer, head designer and production supervisor, is a charter member of Two Rivers Elks Lodge and Rotary, serving the little organization as president in 1942-43.

A son, Daniel, is active in scouting and he has a grandson who is a cub scout.

In addition to the Silver Beaver announcement, other adults, both men and women, who have served the council in advancing scouting were recognized, Kenneth Creamer, council exectutive, presented his report and C. A. Klapp of St. Joseph, Mich., spoke.

Klapp, scout executive of Southwestern Michigan Council, asked, "Who are we to dream, anyway?" in relation to youth and more particularly in the scouting program.

He said, "I like to think we're realists, I like to think, we recognize needs of youth and I like to think we recognize the basic human factor of doing for others some of the things we'd like to have done by others for us."

ADULTS WHO SERVE — Men in scouting who served five years or more are honored at the annual appreciation dinner for scouters. Wednesday night at Holy Innocents School Hall, Manitowoc, Hugh Hallett of Two Rivers, president of Waumegesako Council, presented service certificates to these men as part of the appreciation program. From left are Robert Loeser, Dale Williams, Anthony Gollata, 5 years; Lester Kamke, 15 years; Paul Flentje, Wilton Virnoche, Elwood Miller and Charles Klinkner, 5 years. Hallett presented a certificate to Kamke.

Scouting Will Fill Need

He contended scouting will fill a "very definite need" in the years ahead, what with Khrushchev' boast to "bury us by 1976." Klapp said he has confidence in youth and if "we give them the answers and the rules to follow, they will come through and we will meet every challenge."

"Service," he pointed, "is the rent we pay for the privilege of living on God's earth," and he admonished adults not to shirk the responsibility of working for youth. Klapp said he was not "alarmed over the threat of communism, not when 30 million Americans have been exposed to scouting."

Creamer's report revealed 1960 "had been a good year, there was improvement in many phases." But, Creamer added, "most important, was the revitalized dedication to scouting under Hugh Hallet" of Two Rivers, council president.

The tribute to volunteers and wives was voiced by Robert Broucek, Two Rivers city manager, who said "it is a pleasure to pay real tribute to real persons who give to scouting." He said the sacrifices they have made in working with youth "are appreciated by youth you work with."

Firemen's Hat Presented

Broucek said if any one youth grows into a useful citizen, "you (adults working with him) will be more than satisfied" and compensated. "Each of you," he added, "deserves America's highest praise and we extend our humble appreciation for what you have done."

Edward Reed, council commissioner, recognized scouting units in four areas, registration on time, participation on the national program, attendance at summer camp and subscription to Boys' Life, scouter magazine.

Service awards were distributed by Hallett and training awards by Wesley Boswell, training chairman.

The opening ceremony was by Troop 4, Holy Innocents scouts, and adult members of the council provided the closing ceremony. The opening prayer was by the Rev. Anthony Stefl, assistant pastor at Holy Innocents. E. A. Napp, master of ceremonies, pulled a surprise gift presentation, a battered fireman's hat, to Creamer, who Sunday had a fire at his residence. He also presented, in behalf of the council, a gift to Klapp.

WEDDING CAKE—A huge wedding cake, four feet high, was baked by Mrs. Joseph Biel of Rt. 2, Two Rivers, a friend of the Meyer family, for Rory's and Julius' wedding reception at Art's 151 Club. Four inch plastic posts elevated the tiers of the cake and each post was set in a white swan. The cake was trimmed with sugar bells, lattice hearts, blue birds and bells.

Wedding Cake Weighs Nearly Eighty Pounds

MANITOWOC — A wedding cake four feet high and weighing nearly 80 pounds was baked for Rory and Julius' reception by Mrs. Joseph Biel of Rt. 2, Two Rivers, a friend of the Meyer family.

The cake was transported to Art's 151 Club in sections by Mrs. Biel Saturday morning. She finished the decorations after it was placed in the center of a circular table. It measured 30 inches in diameter.

Mrs. Biel started baking the three tier cake Wednesday, and used about 12 dozen eggs. The yellow and white Lord and Lady Baltimore cake was the largest cake Mrs. Biel has ever baked. "It's about three cakes in one," she said.

The arch, over the top of the cake, was trimmed with bells and ornaments and the cake was decorated with pink roses, bluebirds, lilies, lattice hearts and sugar bells.

The wedding reception for 150 guests started early Saturday afternoon and the bride and groom and wedding party arrived after posing for group pictures.

After Julius and Rory had received their guests in front of the fireplace at Art's, they cut the huge cake. It was served to those attending the reception.

Mrs. Ferdinand Kerscher of Manitowoc was in charge of decorations and the consultant for the reception. The flowers were from Schulander's. The white nylon-taffeta cloth for the buffet table was caught up at intervals with feathered carnations. The floral centerpiece on the buffet table was flanked with double-ring candle holders each with 12 lighted tapers.

Mrs. Kerscher made the vegetable garnishes for the food trays. They were water lilies, swans, roses and other flowers hand carved from turnips.

The solid crystal-clear ice punch bowl, with roses frozen into the ice, was on a separate table with the hors d'oeuvres for the reception.

Lake Michigan's Bottom Holds Tidy Fortune in Sunken Cargo

MANITOWOC— A tidy fortune in cargoes, ranging from china to lumber, lays on the bottom of Lake Michigan off the shores of Manitowoc County.

According to A. C. Fredrickson, veteran captain of the Ann Arbor carferry fleet and an authority on Lake Michigan ships and shiphulls rest on the bottom in this area.

Some of the wrecks have been salvaged. One or two of the ships were pressed back into service.

Most of the 87 are deeply imbedded in the sand of Davey Jones' locker.

Compile Data

Captain Frederickson and his wife, Lucy, of Frankfort, Mich., have compiled and published a map showing exact location of the sunken hulls. The couple worked more than three years compiling the data.

Most of the wrecked ships have names. Others are not identified.

First record shipwreck off Manitowoc County was in 1842 when the schooner Elwellyn became stranded southeast of Yorkville. The little two-masted vessel was loaded with notions and trinkets for Indian trade at Manitowoc Rapids.

Latest ship to go to the bottom was in 1940 when the steamer Isle Royale was scrapped at Manitowoc. Her hull was later recovered and sold to sail again.

No account of the number of lives lost in shipwrecks off the shores of Manitowoc County has ever been compiled. Most disastrous was the sinking of the steamer Vernon during a heavy northeast gale Oct. 29, 1887, off Twin River Point. More than 20 lives were lost.

Test New Sub

Captain Frederickson tells the story of a Navy submarine crew on a testing and training mission in Lake Michigan during the period that underwater craft was constructed at Manitowoc during World War II.

"The men were testing one of the new subs in a deep crater of Lake Michigan," the skipper recalled. "They came upon a hull on the bottom. A woman's face appeared through a port hole of the sunken ship. Members of the crew said the face looked as though the woman was alive. The crewmen were quite shaken at the sight."

"Many of the wrecks listed on the chart and map may still be found. Some have changed location or been destroyed by shifting sands and moving ice. Other hulls will once in awhile work their way out of the sand to the surface and drift ashore," Captain Frederickson explained.

The treacherous waters off Twin River Point north of the City of Two Rivers have claimed the greatest number of ships. Frederickson's charts show 29 hulls on the bottom off that point. Seven ships have been lost off Two Rivers and 22 off shore at Manitowoc. Some of the latter were scrapped, however. Frederickson said.

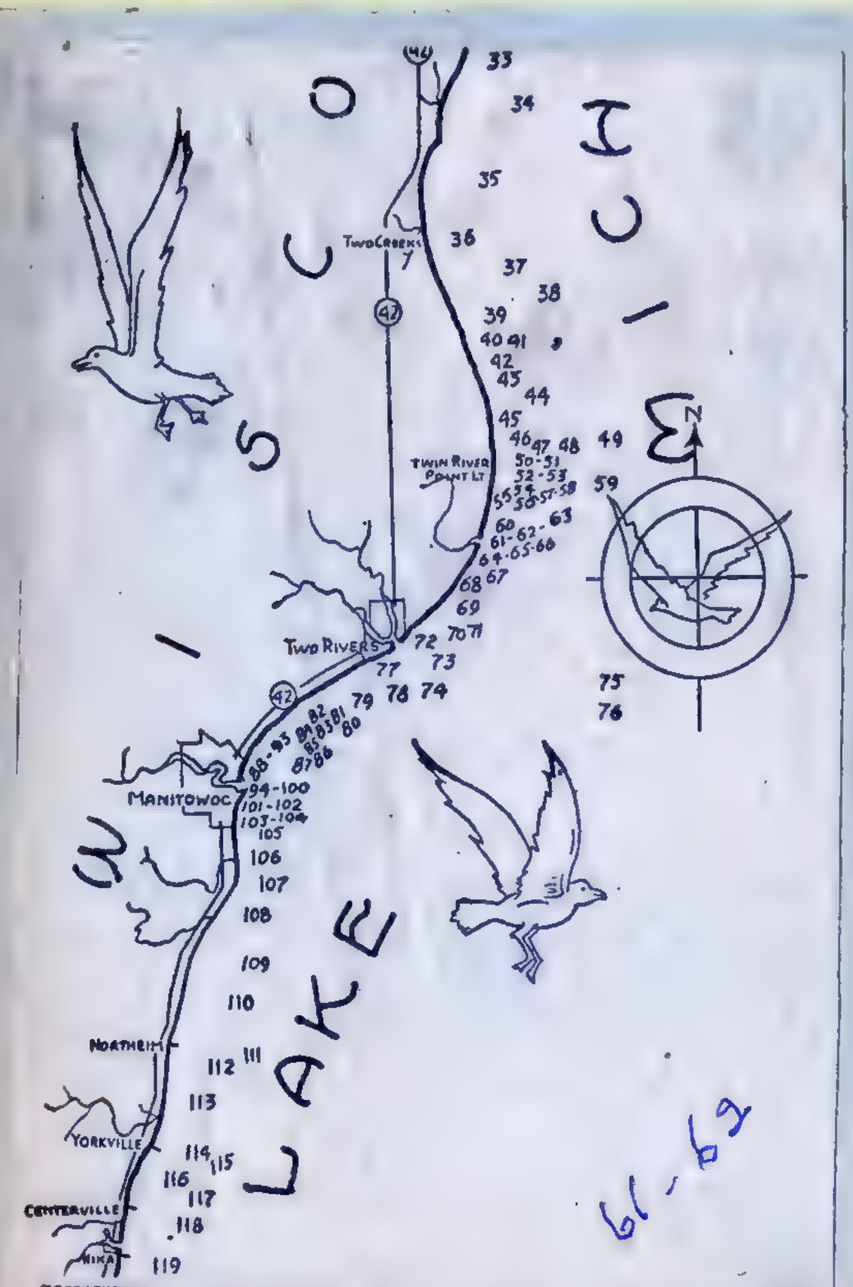
Varied Cargo

Cargoes carried by the ships at the time of their skinking were many and varied. The schooner Mary Anderson, lost in 1870 north of Twin Point, carried beer in her holds. Other cargoes included lumber, brick, Christmas trees, china, plaster, machinery, white fish, coal, tanning bark, grain, wood, kitchenware, hardware, pottery, pork and flour, marble, furniture, tombstones, iron ore, grindstones, wire, railroad ties and steel and fruit.

Although the report has never been pinned down as authentic, the steamer Vernon was said to have carried a large amount of gold in her safe vaults.

"Although this story has never been substantiated, many a diver dreams of finding the remains of this ship," Captain Frederickson said.

Copies of the map and chart, showing location of more than 250 ships which have sunk off the shores of Wisconsin from Algoma to Milwaukee, may be ordered by writing A. C. Frederickson, P.O. Box 272, Frankfort, Mich.



SUNKEN SHIPS—This map, compiled by Capt. A. C. Frederickson of Frankfort, Mich., shows location of 87 ships which sank in Lake Michigan off Manitowoc County shores. Numbers correspond to those on a chart describing type of ship, year of sinking and cargo carried.

Meyer-La Rosa Rite Fills St. Ann Church

FRANCIS CREEK — A personal blessing from Pope Pius XII was imparted to Julius LaRosa and Rosemary Meyer as the climax to their marriage ceremony this Saturday morning in St. Ann Catholic Church.

The Rev. Robert Perella, a friend of the groom who performed the nuptial rite, read the wire which said:

"The Holy Father cordially imparts his blessing on Julius LaRosa and Rosemary Meyer on the occasion of their marriage."

A crowd estimated at 3,000 thronged the church grounds and hundreds of guests started filling the church at 10 a.m., an hour before the first strains of the wedding march were heard. A cordon of deputy sheriffs held back the screaming, shoving mob as LaRosa and his bride left the church at 12:15 p.m.

Admission to the church for the widely publicized event, which has attracted nation - wide attention, was by invitation only. Shortly after 10 a. m. the church was full, with standees crowding the choir loft. Five pews were filled with LaRosa's friends and relatives who traveled here from the east to attend the wedding.

At 10:20 a.m. a roar broke from the crowd outside, startling the guests in the church. LaRosa arrived and was escorted to the sacristy. The handsome young groom and his attendants were clad in formal morning clothes, including striped trousers and cutaway coats.

Who's Nervous?

Julie's best man, Joey St. George lit his cigarette as he paced the sacristy floor, his hands thrust in his pockets. Was he nervous? "What's everyone so nervous for?" he replied nervously.

Also in the sacristy were the Rev. Joseph Rauch, pastor of the church, Father Perella and hte friends of the groom. Father Perella is a Franciscan priest from New York City. Father Dittami, who assisted as subdeacon during the Mass, is a Carmelite priest from Akron, Ohio. Julie's groomsmen were also on hand.

At 10:35 a.m. Rory's brother Ronald lit the candles on the altar. Five minutes later, Julie's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore LaRosa of Mt. Vernon, New York, arrived. She wore a pastel mink stole over her champagne colored dress.

Mrs. Meyer and Rory's family arrived at 10:44 a.m. Mrs. Meyer smiled happily and appeared perfectly composed. Rory's grandmother came at 10:43.

It was 10:51 when Rory appeared at the rear of the church. After posing for photograpers in the vestibule, she followed her attendants down the white carpeted aisle, escorted by her father.

Julie and his attendants were waiting at the foot of the altar. Before meeting his bride, Julie knelt for a brief prayer at the main altar.

"Five minutes!," he quipped to his best man.

Father Kisses Bride

Julie never took his eyes off the lovely bride as she moved down the aisle to meet him. Mr. Meyer paused at the altar rail, lifted his daughter's veil, and kissed her before giving her hand to the groom.

At the altar the wedding party was met by the three priests clad in white chasubles crossed in blue. The chancel of the church was recently redecorated in pastel pink, grey and gold. The altar and the members of the wedding party looked like a pastel portrait.

Father Parella read a wedding message to the couple stressing the importance of selflessness in marriage. He promised that God's grace would sustain them throughout their marriage life in return for their faith and fidelity.

Then he married the couple. Julie's "I will" in response to the wedding vows was clearly heard in the sacristy. Rory's responses were scarcely audible beyond the altar.

Flash bulbs popped and shutters clicked as the couple exchanged the blessed wedding rings. Each vowed to "take and wear this ring as a pledge of my fidelity."

Caron Meyer lifted her sister's veil after the wedding ceremony and the newly married couple returned to the prie dieu before the altar where they remained during the mass which followed the administration of the sacrament of matrimony.

Crowd Held Back

Father Rauch, who grew impatient with photographers during the marriage ceremony, spoke up before the Mass began. "Will photographers cease taking pictures during the sacrifice of the Mass? That's an order!," he said.

The crowd pressed closer and closer to the church as the ceremony neared an end. Sheriff Lester Nichols was pushed to the door before he and his deputies formed a cordon and shoved back a mob of adults and shrieking teen age girls.

County traffic police, who directed traffic before the little sandstone colored church, estimated that 3,000 people passed through Frances Creek during the ceremony. Parked cars lined the highway as far as the eye could reach, stretching the length and breadth of the village and out into the country.

The church doors pushed open at about 12:15 p.m. "There he is, there he is!" the teeenagers shrilled, pushing even closer. When Julie and Rory appeared the cordon gave way and the deputies had all they could do to ring the couple and escort them safely to a waiting car.

Plan Motor Trip

Rory and Julie were driven off to the photographer as lanky teenage boys loped alongside the auto. Through a heart fashioned of white crepe paper strands the crowd saw the groom light a cigarette, inhale deeply and stretch his arm across the shoulder of his bride, who was busy settling yards and yards of bouffant skirt.

Guests who were invited to attend the reception at Art's 151 Club were driven off in a cavalcade of cars chauffeured by villagers.

Julie and Rory haven't been specific about their honeymoon plans, but they have indicated it will be a motor trip to the south and east, "definitely in a temperate zone."

3,000 CROWD AROUND CHURCH—A mob of 3,000 persons jammed the village of Francis Creek during the wedding of Julius LaRosa and Rosemary (Rory) Meyer Saturday morning. The couple was nearly crushed as it left the church. Julius' New York friends pelleted the couple with rice as it left the church.

Traditional Services to be July 4 at Lax Chapel

To keep up an old tradition, the Rev. Denis Cooney, pastor of St. Gregory Catholic Church, St. Nazianz, will offer the Mass and benediction at 9 a. m. Saturday in the tiny Lax Chapel near St. Nazianz.

The Chapel, located about four miles southwest of St. Nazianz, has a capacity of 70 which will be increased by the addition of benches in the area around the chapel to accommodate the expected crowd. The Mass is offered in honor of the Feast of the Visitation of the Blessed Virgin, to whom the chapel is dedicated.

The original chapel was built by Frank Lax in 1875 when he came to America from Bohemia. He was suffering from an illness at the time, and promised the Blessed Virgin that if he was cured he would build a shrine on his farm in her honor. Lax was cured and erected the first chapel in keeping with his vow.

Interested neighbors joined him in prayer and soon the building became too small to accommodate the many visitors. In 1910 the Lax family and neighbors enlarged the shrine.

The third generation of the Lax family, Frank III, is now living on the farm and keeping up the tiny church. His son, Frank IV, serves at the annual Mass and his wife and daughter are in charge of decorating the altar.

The small shrine is equipped with an altar, surmounted by a tiny statue of the Blessed Virgin. There are rows of straightbacked pews and a small organ. The latch on the door is never barred so that strangers may enter at any time.

If the farm should ever be sold outside the family, the chapel and its surrounding one acre will become the property of St. Gregory Church and the Salvatorian Fathers.

LAX CHAPEL—This is a view of the exterior of the tiny Lax Chapel, located on the Frank Lax farm, near St. Nazianz. Traditional services will be offered at the chapel Saturday.

HORSE BARNS BURN — The controversial horse barns at Manitowoc County Fairgrounds caught fire shortly before 2 p.m. Monday causing considerable damage to approximately 150 feet of the west end of the building. Manitowoc Fire Chief James N. Danielson said that the cause of the fire is still being investigated. The fire department was summoned at 1:53 p.m. Shortly after 2 p.m. firemen had quieted the flames which were leaping rapidly towards the eastern end of the building. Dr. A. F. Rank, Fair Board secretary, said that although there was some storage in the building nothing of any value was destroyed. He added that no estimate of damage has been determined but mentioned that the building had been severely charred on the inside. An adjuster was expected to check the building sometime Tuesday. The barns have been vacated since July 1, when the Fair Board issued an order for all horses to be removed from the building because residents living near the fairgrounds complained for years about the unsanitary conditions and the stench emanating from them. QUEEN OF THE LAKES — The largest boat on the Great Lakes, the Edward L. Ryerson, is being fitted out for its trial run and the move downriver as she lays at her berth in the turning basin adjacent to Manitowoc Shipbuilding Inc. The 730-foot queen of Great Lakes ore carriers incorporates straight sides built into the cargo hold with 20 foot hatches, almost twice as wide as those of typical older boats of its type. Cost of the new ship is estimated at $8,000,000. In the background of the photograph is the Manitowoc harbor and the breakwaters through which the Ryerson will steam on its way to work. Special surveys were needed and some dredging done in the Manitowoc River to enable the Ryerson to negotiate the hairpin curves and bridges before it reaches Lake Michigan. Cast for 'Harvey' Revealed

The cast for the spring play, "Harvey," at Lincoln High School, Manitowoc, to be presented Thursday, April 20, and Saturday, April 22, has been announced by Eugene Cramer, director.

"Harvey," a Pulitzer Prize winning play by Mary Chase, is a satire on the hurry-up world of today. Starring in the play is Harvey, a six-foot invisible white rabbit.

"Of course, since Harvey's invisible," said Cramer, "we have to take the word of Elwood P. Dowd, played by senior Robert Savage, as to what Harvey looks like since Elwood is the only one who sees him!"

Elwood's sister, Veta Louise Simmons, played by Moria Mackert, junior, and his niece, Myrtle Mae Simmons, played by Stephanie Urban, sophomore, are ashamed of Elwood and his imaginary rabbit and want him placed in a mental sanitarium so he won't disgrace them by introducing Harvey to their friends. But by some mistake, Veta ends up in the sanitarium instead of Elwood!

More Than 500 Seniors Graduate at Lincoln High

LINCOLN BELLES AND BEAUS — Lincoln High School's colorful graduation ceremony in the Manitowoc school bowl Wednesday was a feast for the eyes, with nearly half of the graduating class clothed in soft, pastel-colored formals, and the other half in contrasting dark suits and white rose-bud boutonniers. More than 500 graduates filed into the bowl as the band, under the direction of William B. Jones played "Coronation March" from "The Prophet," by Meyerbeer; "Soldiers Chorus" from "Faust," by Gounod, and "Triumphal March" from Aida, by Verdi. Immediately following was the presentation of the colors and the Star Spangled Banner. Flower girls forming a guard of honor along the processional were top students of the class of 1962. Class flower was the white rose, class colors were gold and white and class motto, "The doors of wisdom are never shut," something they were reminded of by Rufin W. Boyd, principal, who spoke during the ceremonies. (Photos by staff photographers Louis Fandrick and Daryl Cornick)

CUB POW-WOW—A total of 120 Cub Scout leaders attended the pow-wow Sunday afternoon at St. Mary School, Manitowoc, making it the most successful pow-wow ever held, according to Waumegesako Boy Scout Council observation. Each person picked the section he wanted to attend—handicraft, pack administration, games or ceremonies, stunts and skits—and came away with ideas to make cub scouting more interesting to more boys. Anthony Gollata was general chairman and was assisted by a committee of nine sub-chairmen and committee members. The pow-wow concluded with a blue and gold banquet served by women of St. Mary Church. This scene was typical of activities conducted throughout the afternoon. In the handicraft section from left are Mrs. O. W. LANDMARK GOES—The old Kingsbury Brewery, located at Ninth and Marshall streets, Manitowoc, is being razed. A huge crane, owned by the Madison Moving and Wrecking Co. of Madison and Oshkosh, is breaking off huge chunks of the structure at the top. The first brewery was built on the spot more than 100 years ago and was owned and operated by Charles Hottelmann. The building is now owned by Heileman Brewing Co., La Crosse, after that brewery and Kingsbury Breweries of Manitowoc and Sheboygan merged in 1962. (Photo by staff photographer)

Past Fades With Razing of Brewery

MANITOWOC — A part of the old, old past is fast disappearing from the scene of Manitowoc these days with the razing of the old brewery plant at the corner of Ninth and Marshall streets. Demolition work is being done by the Madison Moving and Wrecking Co. of Madison and Oshkosh.

Part of the old structure is remains of the first brewery at Manitowoc owned by Charles Hottelmann who operated the initial plant on that site. The old brewery plant is estimated to be well over 100 years old.

It wasn't long until the Kunz family came along from Germany to provide Manitowoc and the area with fine beer. Gottfried and H. George Kunz came from near Wertonburg, Germany, where the art of brewing ran through family veins. H. George Kunz bought out the operation in 1865 and operated the plant until his death in 1872. Working with H. G. were Louis Kunz, his youngest half-brother and John Schreihart, who had also been schooled, by experience, in the beer-making trade. After H. G. died Louis Kunz went to work for Gottfried Kunz.

Bought Out Brewery

Louis Kunz and John Schreihart later conducted the large brewery on Washington Street here.

Louis Kunz and Daniel B. Bleser teamed up and bought out the brewery under the name of Kunz, Bleser and Co., Brewers in 1885 and brewed the finest of Dortmunder, Hoffbrau and Extra Pale Beer. The partnership ran up to about 1918.

And then the country went dry. Rahr, Schreihart, and Kunz formed the Manitowoc Brewers Co. and bottled near beer and soda. The name was changed again—this time to the Manitowoc Products Co.—and the firm went into the ice cream, cheese and butter business at the Washington Street plant.

Moved to Sheboygan

With the legal return of beer in 1933, Kingsbury Brewery came into being. With Louis Kunz president of the company up to his death in 1936, the brewery brewed and bottled Kingsbury Pale and other fine beers. The brewery here was closed about 10 or 12 years ago and operations were moved to the Sheboygan plant.

Erwin C. Kunz, son of Louis Kunz, remained on the board of directors of Kingsbury Brewing Co. up to several years ago.

The G. Heilman Brewing Co. of LaCrosse merged with Kingsbury Breweries in 1962. Razing operations were started several weeks ago.

WINTER PLAY AT LHS — "The Skin of Our Teeth," Pulitzer prize play by Thornton Wilder, will be presented at Lincoln High School, Manitowoc, at 8:15 o'clock this Thursday evening and again Saturday evening. Impressionistic Scenery Designed for School Play

"The Skin of Our Teeth," winter play at Lincoln High School, Manitowoc, is not a realistic play, but it has a lot to do with reality. "Because it is an imaginative play we plan to use highly imaginative scenery," according to George Kanzelberger, speech arts teacher, who is the set designer for the play.

He went on to say that the sets are being done in a constructivistic" style, an "impressionistic constructionism."

"Constructivism was inspired by the Russian interest in mechanization of society and scorn of capitalistic ideas of beauty. It gives the actor all the advantages of conventional stage constructions without bothering to pretty them up for the audience's benefit. Platforms, plastic pieces, steps and flats are left exposed and unadorned, looking like an unfinished house," he said.

"Like the impressionistic painter, the impressionistic scene designer does not use realistic details but instead works with generalities of line color and form to produce the effects rather than using literal representations of various objects," Kanzelberger explained.

"The scene designer must convey his impressions of the play to the audience through the set." commented Eugene Cramer, director.

The set for the first and third acts is unique. Because the audience must be able to see the action that goes on in the yard as well as the action that goes on in the house — the walls are mere outlines, giving the impression of an enclosure. The main structure supports are left uncovered so the audince can see right through the "walls" to the yard.

In the first act, parts of the house "fly" up into the scenery loft. In the third act they are brought down and the house is "put to rights." This is to symbolize that no matter how low man falls he always starts rebuilding again.

The setting for the second act is the boardwalk at Atlantic City. The stage is the boardwalk, in back of which are a turkish bath, a bingo parlor, a fortune teller's tent and a salt water taffy stand. In the orchestra pit will be a ramp leading to the state, this will be the beach. At the far stage right of this beach will be a cabana. The audience sits in the "ocean."

Kanzelberger added "There needs to be a unity of style between the play, the acting and the setting. Since this is not a realistic play people should not expect realistic scenery. This naturally demands more on the part of the audience, they have to use their imaginations."

"The Skin of Our Teeth" will be presented Feb. 21 and Feb. 23 at 8:15 p.m. in the Lincoln High School auditorium.

PLAY OPENS THURSDAY—Moliere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," the spring play at Lincoln High School, Manitowoc, is a return to 17th Century France in costuming and plot. Cavalier suits, apothecary robes, tall pointed doctor's hats, buckle shoes, and floor length satin dresses are all costumes used to depict peasant and royal life in France during the 17th Century. In this scene Martine, played by Phyllis Fandrick, is beaten by her husband, Sganarelle, the woodcutter, played by Scott Kliment. The nosy neighbor at right, who receives no thanks for his interference is Robert, played by Jim Gollata. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Thursday and the play will be repeated Saturday. Tickets will be available at the box office. (Photo by staff photographer)

17th Century Comedy Is Enjoyed at High School

By MARJORIE MILEY

A highly entertaining play, Mollere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" was given by the Speech Arts Dept. of Lincoln High School Thursday evening in the auditorium of the Manitowoc School.

The costumes are colorful, the scenery is good, and the dialogue is satire at its best.

This play was produced for the first time in 1666 at the Palais Royale in France and although it is nearly 300 years old the jokes and many of the lines fit 20th Century situations.

The play will be repeated at 8:15 p.m. Saturday and tickets will be available at the high school box office.

Scott Kliment and Phyllis Fandrick are cast as the woodcutter, Sganarelle, and his wife, Martine. Scott is a good choice for the happy-go-lucky woodcutter who is never without his jug of "spirit." And it would be correct to say that Phyllis really throws herself into the role of Martine. Her facial expressions speak just as loudly as her dialogue. This is the first time we have seen these two in a Lincoln Play but obviously they, and the others in the cast were well coached by director Eugene Cramer.

Love Interests

Providing the love interest in this farce are Aimee Paque as Lucinde and Bill Driscoll as Leandre. Bill looked quite professional in the apothecary robes and pointed hat of the medical profession, and Aimee was lovely in a floor length satin dress. Her two maids Carol Yealon and Kathy Gelmer didn't have much to say but managed to look appropriately solemn during the "doctor's" consultation.

Dennis Lishka as Valere and Jim Clark as Lucas, who have been sent out to find a doctor to cure Lucinde, turn out to be a good comedy team. Jim was especially good as the clumsy lout who really is smarter than he appears, especially when the "doctor" is attracted to his wife, Jacqueline, played by Marcia Teitgen. Jacqueline flirts openly with Sganarelle but at the end returns to Lucas.

Jim Gollata makes a brief but active appearance as the nosey neighbor who tries to break up the quarrel between the woodcutter and his wife, only to be told to mind his own business. Phil Goeters and Randy Lauson as Thibaut and Perrin add a lot of laughs to the story when they visit the famous "doctor" and try to solicit his help.

Special Effects

Steve Masar looked and acted the part of the frustrated father who is looking for a doctor to cure his daughter. He realizes too late that he has been duped, but everything turns out for the best in the end.

Many special effects and props are used to give the impression of merciless beatings with sticks. In fact several of the youthful actors surely have a few black and blue spots as reminders of their realistic performances Thursday night.

David Usitalo, a sophomore, designed and helped build the very fine sets for the play which included two forest scenes and a courtyard.

The play is different from any previously produced at the school and continues the speech arts department's policy of selecting plays which provide a real challenge to the youthful actors and stage hands.

Youngster Hurt When Auto Stops

MANITOWOC — Vicki Gollata, 18 months, sustained bumps on the head and was X-rayed at Holy Family Hospital Saturday after she fell from the front seat of her father's automobile as he braked to avoid a collision at S. 20th and Clark streets. Ronald A. Gollata of 1714-A Wollmer St. was westbound on Clark St. and at S. 20th Street had to brake suddenly to avoid a collision with a car approaching from the south on 20th Street. The little girl tumbled from the seat and was injured.

Robert J. McDonnell of 419 N. Eighth St. struck a power pole at S. 21st and Wollmer streets at 3:35 a.m. Sunday. He said he veered to the side to avoid an oncoming car and struck the pole. Police said there were no skid marks at the scene.

John Isselman, 16, of 2025 Markham St. skidded on ice as he attempted to make a right turn onto Lincoln Boulevard while traveling west on Waldo Boulevard at 7:35 p.m. Saturday. The rear wheel of his car struck the curb of the island. After the impact the rear wheels of his 1962 Corvair refused to turn, indicating damage to the drive gears.

GATHERING SAP—Michael Samz, son of the original owner and a brother of present owner William Samz, still enjoys coming out to the farm and helping during the sap gathering and boiling time each year. Here he takes part of the school tour group in tow and shows them how the sap is gathered from the covered pails attached to the various trees. The covers keep out rain, dirt and thirsty squirrels. From left are Charles Bradl, Judy Nagel, Jeffery Rusboldt, Samz, Mary Weber, Susan Welch and Charles Luebke. (All photos by staff photographer Lou Fandrick)

TRY SOME—The scene set by the crackling of the roaring fire, the bubbling boil of the syrup and the plumes of steam rising from the cooking vats, the visiting Cleveland School class from Manitowoc stood in line with cups while Oscar Samz, father of the owner and originally owner and operator of the sugar camp, passed out samples of real, pure Wisconsin maple syrup. Children from left are Anna Labinski, John Grosshuesch, Michael Mella, Dan Braley, Daniel Flaim, Dennis Hubbart and Mike Tollefson.

THE BEGINNING—The maple syrup industry starts, once you have the trees, with drilling the hole in which a spigot is inserted and from which later, drains the sap gathered for the cooking process. Oscar Samz, father of the present owner and who started drilling holes in these same trees some 50 years ago, demonstrates the process to visiting schoolchildren. Gathered around him are from left Suzanne Wigand, David Urban Timothy Sobel (almost hidden but who is wearing the tassel cap), Samz, Beatrice Karl (who is almost hidden), Lois Haupt and Steven Folletz.

Samz Name Legend in Sugarbush Industry

By SYD HERMAN

MANITOWOC — The sugarbush has been a part of Manitowoc County's farming picture from the days of the pioneer and while never an extensive industry it has been dabbled in by many. Only a few, however, have made it a primary factor in their farming plan and among these the name of Samz has become legend.

William Samz of Rt. 1, Mishicot, today is the fourth generation in his family to work the same stand of maple and his children are growing into a fifth generation of sap gatherers and boilers.

William is lucky, though, in that he has the expert services of his retired father, Oscar, who ran the industry before him and who in turn traces the beginnings to his grandparents who came to this country in 1847 and obtained the tract in a land grant from Zachary Taylor, then president of the United States. The family still has the original land grant in its possession.

Vine Dresser

Jacob Trossen, the Samz great grandparent, left Trier, Germany, where he was a vine dresser in a vineyard and abandoned a considerable estate under political oppression as he brought his family from the banks of the Mosel River in Germany to Manitowoc in the United States in 1847. Jacob and his wife brought their five children with them and Oscar's mother was born five days after the family reached Wisconsin. Both the parents were then 45 years old. Little Katherine grew up on the Mishicot farm, eventually married hired man Edward Samz and inherited the farm.

In the beginning the family tapped only the trees around the house — some 150 of them and boiled the sap in kettles for their own use. Today the Samz' hang 750 buckets and still have 100 trees which have never been tapped. Of the trees which are regularly tapped there are many which have had pails hung on them for the past 70 years. The tract reseeds itself and only the dead trees, never more than a few a year, are cut down. The underbrush in the woods is practically all young maple struggling to reach the sun. Some 1,000 young maples from this woods were recently transplanted to the Branch River Country Club.

Crop Varies

The crop varies. According to William, the biggest year ever recorded showed 245 gallons of syrup cooked while the poorest year gave only a 25 gallon crop. Average take is from 125-150 gallons, he said. Multiply the gallons of syrup by the 40-45 gallons of sap required to make one gallon of syrup and you get an idea of the scope of the project.

Oscar Samz, now retired, stille goes back to the sugarbush and boils the sap. It's his hobby and he pursues it like other men pursue hunting and fishing. He said he boils 12 52-gallon hogsheads of sap a day and unlike the old days, they now let the fires die down while they go home and sleep nights. Boiling in the old days used to be a round-the-clock event. About 25 cords of dead birch and maple wood are used during the cooking process each season.

Another refinement has also been added. Storage tanks and gravity floats enable the depth of the liquid to remain constant even when the sap boils over a dying fire but bottle gas units are used for the final cooking to prevent scorching. A built-in thermometer insures uniformity. The finished syrup sells for from $6 to $7 a gallon (which weighs 11 pounds) and is bottled in pint, quart and two quart sizes.

Opens Shed

Oscar's interest enables William to continue the project since operating 170 acres of farmland and milking 36 head of Guernseys and Holsteins keeps William busy during sap time. Oscar retired 10 years ago and eight years ago moved to town. But comes the thaw in the second week of March, Oscar opens the cooking shed and gets things in order. Once he tapped in February but the freeze returned and shut down the project. The run lasts approximately three to four weeks.

The old rule is that frosty nights and nice days makes the sap run but Oscar said this is not a hard and fast rule. Sometimes, he said, there is no frost and the trees continue to run all night. The average tree yields 25 to 30 gallons of sap a season but there is great variation and there are years when the sap is sweeter than others. Contrary to popular belief, large trees can take up to three buckets. Sap is caught in pails with specially designed covers to keep out dead leaves, rain, and thirsty squirrels.

Pipeline System

Another Samz son, Rolie, operates a sugarbush on his own farm east of Mishicot and uses the plastic pipeline system but has run into some problems which tend to keep William working the pail system. The pipeline system sometimes resting on snow tends to freeze up in spots.

Most of the syrup is sold right in Manitowoc, William said, and in checking a customer list it reveals to that the best customers in large quantity purchases over the years were J. A. Rummele, Max Rahr, Emil Teitgen, Julius Lindsteadt, E. G. Nash and Judge Kirwan. Oscar recalls a physician who sometimes took up to half the season's cooking, using it as a medicine — "A spring tonic", he said.

Many users cut the pure maple syrup with corn syrup, boiled sugar water and other ingredients but for the real thing you must use it as it is — on ice cream, over cottage cheese as a salad, with pancakes or waffles, or (his favorite) over French toast, Oscar recommends.

Disaster, too, has overtaken the project on occasion. In 1952, the cooking shed, harboring a dying fire, somehow caught fire and burned to the ground. All but the buckets were lost and the Samz' started over. But learning from experience they built a fireproof building this time and the threat now is gone.

Each syllable can have five meanings in the language of the African Bushmen. Syllables can be pronounced with a high, middle or low tone, or with a rising or falling inflection.

MAKESHIFT METHOD — Dennis Carter, on knees, didn't wait to find out about paper cups. He spotted a tree from which sap was running and from which the pail had been removed and, typical boy-fashion, dropped on his knees and let the running spigot on the tree drip sweet sap directly into his mouth. "Tastes better that way," he said to companion Jeffrey Stock who waited in line.

ALL FIRED UP—About a quart and a half of moisture per minute is boiled off during the refining process in the making of maple syrup but in order to keep up this production pace a good deal of wood must be stockpiled and fed to the wood furnace. Here Michael Samz shows the visiting schoolchildren another step in the operation of a sugarbush camp. Children from left are Vickie Komorosky, Kathy Jensen, Bryan Klein and Raymond Wagner. The cups the children hold are of paper and were used to give each child a taste of the sap and of the finished product.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH AND RECTORY — Shown above is the newly enlarged church and newly constructed rectory of the Holy Cross Catholic Parish, Mishicot. Holy Cross to Mark 100th Year

His Excellency Bishop Stanislaus V. Bona will preside at the Solemn High Mass of Thanksgiving at 11 a.m. Sunday commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Holy Cross Catholic Church, Mishicot.

The Rev. Alfred Pritzl, who served the parish from 1932 to 1938, and is now at St. Boniface Catholic Church, Manitowoc, will be the celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. George Beth, who served the parish from 1946 to 1958, deacon, and the Rev. Joseph Boehm, as subdeacon.

The Rev. Earl Brouchoud, a son of the parish, will deliver the jubilee sermon and master of ceremonies at the Mass will be the Rev. Edward Witczak.

An anniversary dinner will be served following Mass to the visiting clergy, sisters of Bay Settlement who have taught in the Holy Cross School during the past years, and to members of the congregation who have made advance reservations. The dinner will be served in the school gymnasium by the women of the parish.

Church History

Holy Cross Parish, Mishicot, began in the year 1854 when members built the first chapel which was only a mission station of the St. Luke parish of Two Rivers, and was visited occasionally by the following priests who were serving St. Luke at that time: The Rev. E. Van Steenwyck, Dec. 1863 to Nov. 1864; the Rev. Bonaventure DeGoey, Dec. 1864 to June 1865; the Rev. Nicholas Stehle, July 1865 to Oct. 1865; the Rev. N. Hens, May 1866 to June 1867; the Rev. James Gauche, Feb. 1868 to Aug. 1870; the Rev. J. J. Zawitowski, Nov. 1870 to Sept. 1873; and the Rev. James Gauche, July 1874 to Nov. 1875.

PRESENT PASTOR— The Rev. Anthony Betley is the present pastor of Holy Cross Catholic Church, Mishicot, which is observing its 100th jubilee Sunday. Father Betley has served the parish since succeeding the Rev. George Beth in 1958. (Vassar Studio)

Before this time, in about 1851, the Rev. Joseph Brunsen, S.J., who resided at Manitowoc Rapids, was the first priest to minister to the spiritual needs of the Catholics as often as he could, as he traveled mostly on foot. The Rev. Wenninger S. J. was another traveling missionary who visited Mishicot occasionally. During the years that intervened between 1851 and 1854 these priests said Mass in various homes.

It was decided in the year 1860 to 1861 to proceed with the organization of a parish at Mishicot. As closely as it can be ascertained the first Catholic church at Mishicot was built between 1861 and 1862, and consisted of a 50 foot long and 25 foot wide frame structure, resting on wooden posts, with a tower in pioneer gothic style. A year or two later B. Breider built a stone substructure for the building.

First Baptism

The first baptism recorded in the parish is that of Mary Boudewyn, who was born April 16, 1863 and baptized on Christmas Day, 1863. The first marriage recorded is that of Maurice Filly, son of Maurice Filly and Margaret Burshiez, to Rosalie Rouller, daughter of Louis Rouller and Louise Creton, on Feb. 7, 1864. Witnesses were Benjamin Luy and John Roulller. The first burial was that of Oliver LeClair at the Catholic cemetery at Mishicot. He was born in 1822 and died April 11, 1864. LeClair donated the plot of land on which the parish is located.

There were about 70 families when the parish was organized. In nationality they were about equally divided between French-Canadians, Germans, and French-Swiss.

OLDEST MEMBER — Mrs. Jane Roullier, presently residing at Park Lawn Home, Manitowoc, is the oldest living member of Holy Cross Catholic Church, Mishicot. Mrs. Roullier will observe her 100th birthday anniversary Jan. 24, 1964.

In November, 1875, the Rev. A. B. Rinches became the first resident pastor of Holy Cross. During his pastorate a severe storm wrecked the tower and front of the church, so an extension of 12 feet in width was then built to the front of the church with a half-tower at a cost of $862.04. Some years later the whole church was rebuilt and considerably enlarged.

After the pastorate of Father Rinches, Holy Cross again became a mission and was served by the Rev. A. Bogacki of St. Luke from May, 1877 to August, 1877. Father Hellweger came to remain for a few months followed by the Rev. George Veit in February, 1878 who was succeeded in mid-summer of 1879 by the Rev. H. Reuter, who remained until May, 1880. The parish was without a pastor for two years.

Stations Installed

The Rev. Sales Beck became pastor in August, 1882 and remained to July, 1885. The Rev. A. N. Buschle served the parish for a short time in 1886 and was followed by the Rev. W. F. Van Roosemalen who served from November, 1886 to January, 1890. During his pastorate the first set of stations, donated by William Cochems, were installed.

From October, 1890 to January, 1893, the Rev. M. Welbes was appointed to the parish at Francis Creek and also serviced Holy Cross. The Rev. Peter Schmitz served both parishes from March, 1893 to July, 1896. Under the orders of the bishop, Father Schmitz organized the building of a new church at Mishicot in 1894 at a total cost of $8,000, which included new altars and pews. He was succeeded in August, 1890 by the Rev. William De Haan, who also served both parishes.

In October, 1897 Holy Cross again had a resident pastor, the Rev. Aloysius Bastian who remained until August, 1899. During his pastorate he did much in developing the parish spiritually and materially. In 1898 a substantial parsonage was built at a cost of $2,200.

School Erected

The Rev. J. A. Bourgmeyer served from November, 1899 to June 1900. He was followed by the Rev. Philip St. Louis, who remained for eight years and with the help of a parishioner, John Cochems, in 1907 the first parochial school was erected at a cost of $2,031.86. With the advent of the school, the Sisters of St. Francis from Bay Settlement, began their work in the parish with the teaching of a Christian education. An earlier venture of having a school had been undertaken in 1864 when Sister Mary Strauss of the Third Order of St. Francis of St. Nazianz taught school in an old house.

In August, 1908, the Rev. Arthur Belle became pastor and remained for 18 years. During his time, about 1909, there were 89 families in the parish, and in 1913 the original one room school was remodelled to a two room school building with living quarters upstairs for the sisters. In 1915 the altars were redecorated, oil paintings of the stations were donated and installed, and a central heating system for all the parish buildings was installed.

In September, 1926 the Rev. Michael Gonnering succeeded Father Belle. During his pastorate major improvements included a new pipe organ, remodelling the rectory, new vestments and redecorating the church.

Good Weather 'Sure Thing' for Graduation

By LEO GOLDAPSKE
Staff Writer

MANITOWOC — Naturally, job hunting will be the main "occupation" for many of the Lincoln High School students who were graduated Wednesday. But, certainly some of them are going to join the U. S. Weather Bureau. Other "grads" must have done it, for how else can that fabulous Commencement Day weather keep floating over the Bowl year after year, after year? Wednesday's nearly cloudless readings were 66 degrees at 1:30 p. m., rose to 72 degrees at 3:15 p. m., then had dropped back to 66 by the time Thomas Williams sounded the last note of Taps.

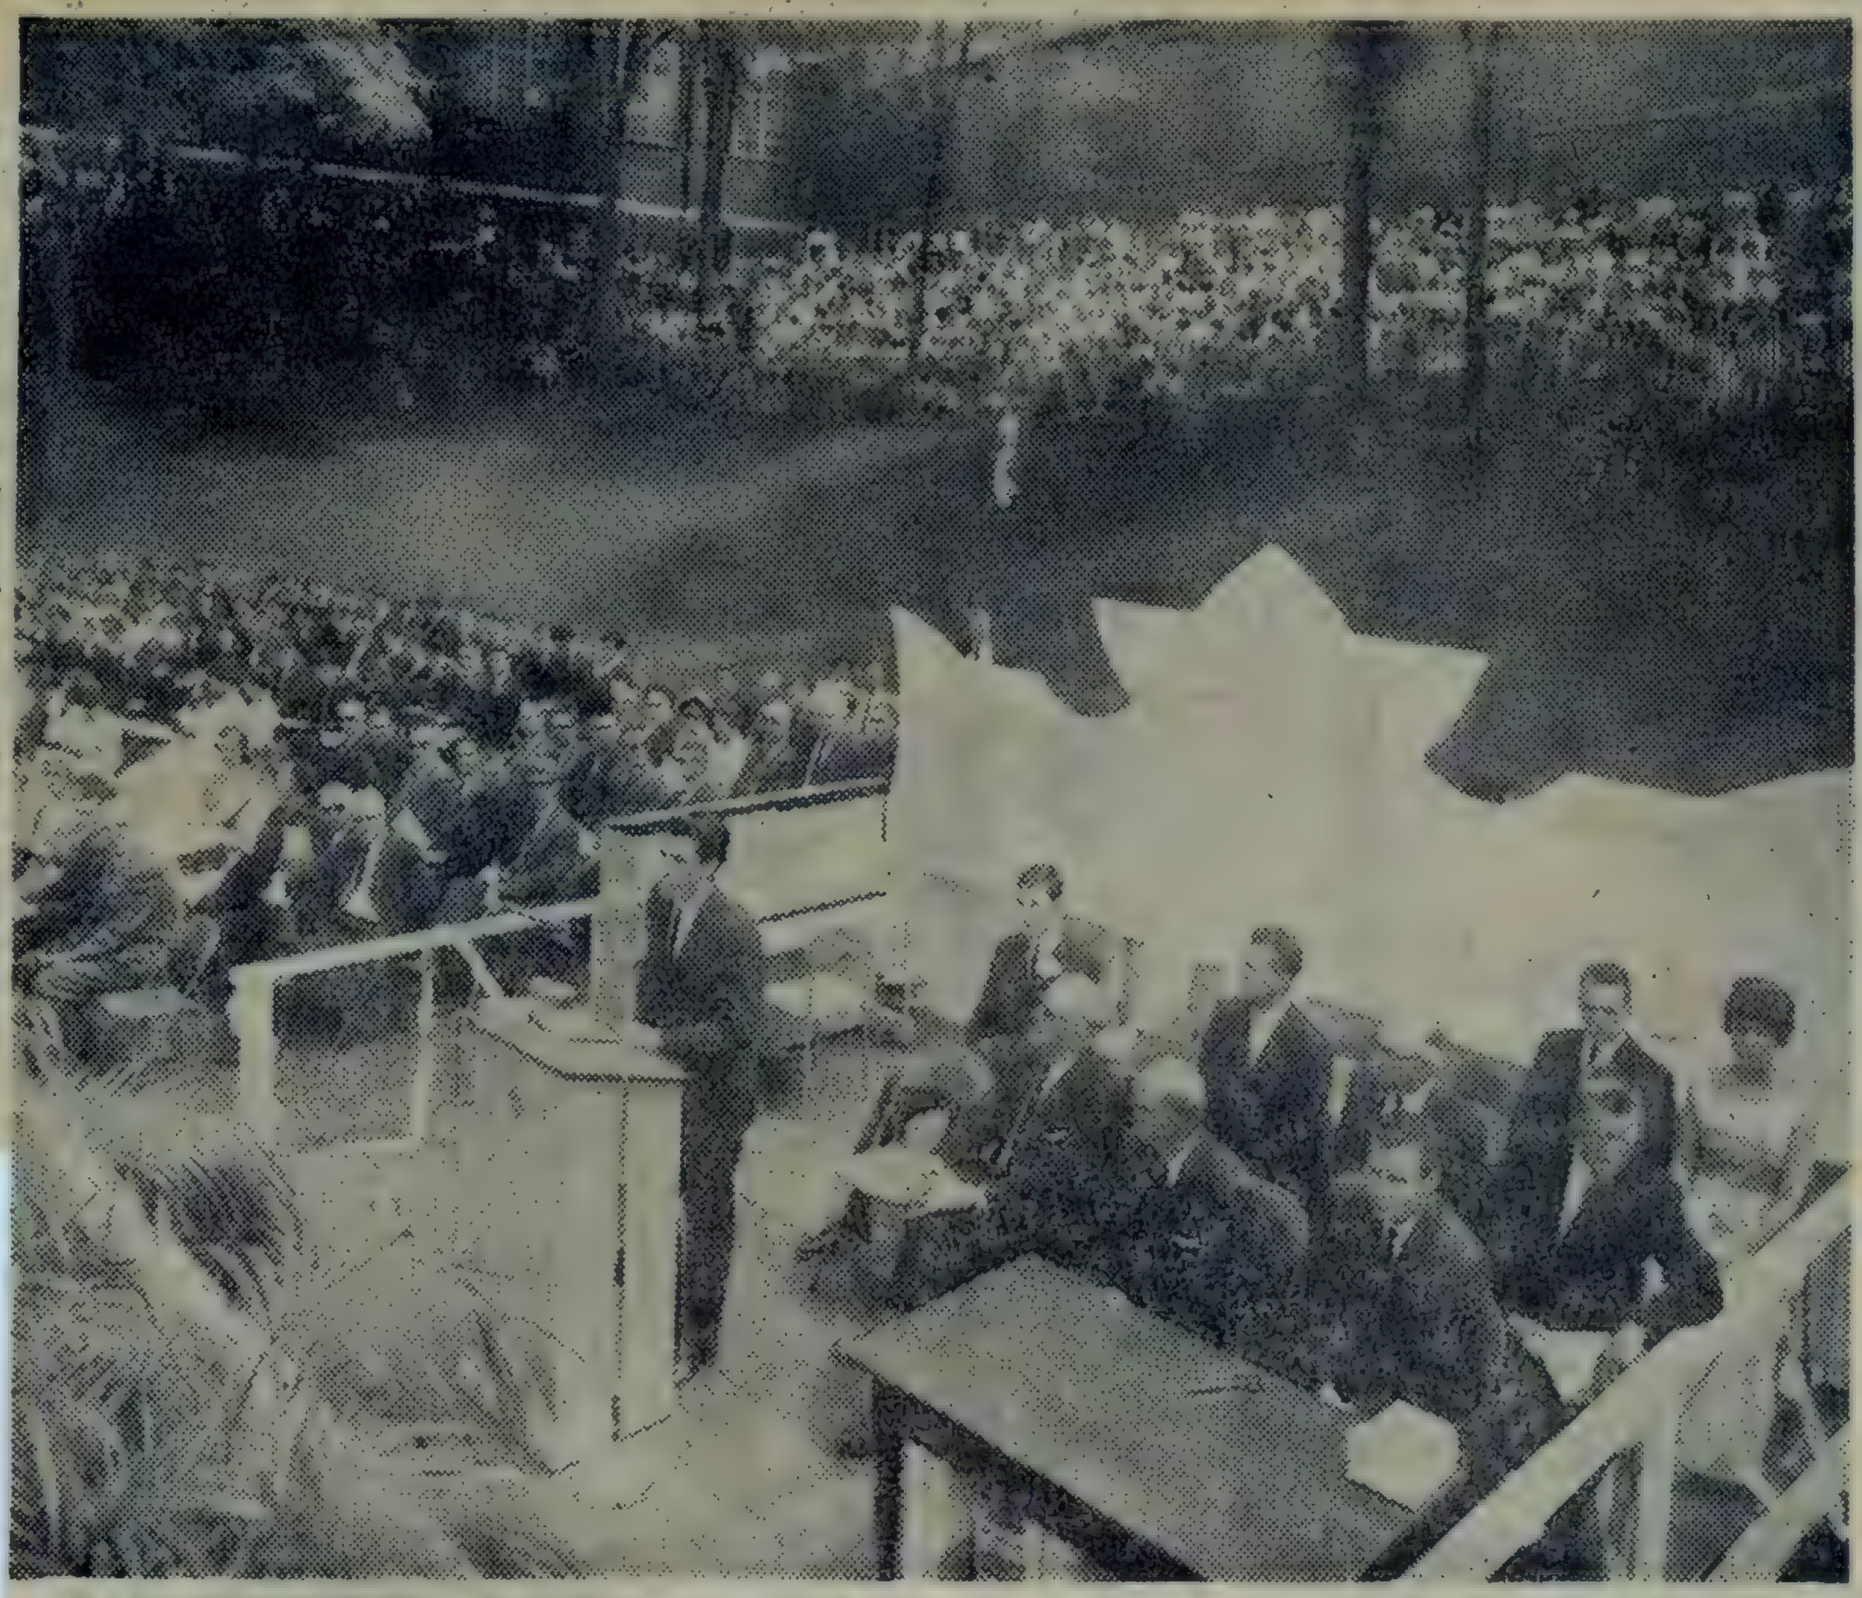
Don't look now, but one of the girl - graduates of that Class of 63' had vowed to leave Manitowoc Thursday (that's today) for Hollywood, where she hopes to be tagged for stardom. One of her first moves in the direction was to dye her hair before graduation day.

What a crowd! And it is boun to be bigger again next year whe the graduate total is expected t rise to 784 students.

While some of those 516 senior who said goodbye to Lincoln Wed nesday head for the U. S. Weathe Bureau, Hollywood or remain righ here, 54 per cent of their class will resume the role of studen at various colleges and universities in the fall.

Did you know that John P. Dramm, president of the Board of Education, was not exactly unfamiliar with the role of a key speaker when he spoke before awarding diplomas Wednesday? He gave the Commencement address for his Lincoln High School Class of 1951!

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED — John P. Dramm, president of the Board of Education, had the honor of presenting diplomas to the more than 500 Lincoln High School graduates Wednesday. Some 54 per cent of the Class of 1963 will be going on to colleges or universities in the fall.



CLASS PRESIDENT— Zell White, president of the Lincoln High School Class of 1963, extended the thanks of his classmates for their education to the Manitowoc community, school faculty, Board of Education and parents during his welcome speech shortly after the Commencement program began Wednesday in Lincoln Bowl. Teachers are seated next to the raised platform.

Manitowoc's First Public School Erected in 1839

(Editor's Note — This series of articles on early-day schools in the City of Manitowoc was prepared by the late Joseph J. Rappel, former Manitowoc County superintendent of schools, a former elementary grade school principal and teacher for many years.)

By Joseph J. Rappel
(First of Five Articles)

MANITOWOC — The first Manitowoc public school, erected in 1839 and located north of the river, served the settlement's educational needs until about 1850. The influx of German settlers south of the river led to the creation of School District 2 by the town board and included all of Manitowoc township south of the Manitowoc River. It was known as the First Ward School.

Before a schoolhouse was erected by the new district, school was held in a room rented from a Mr. Esslinger who owned the Metropolitan Hotel at the northwest corner of Franklin and South Seventh streets, now the location of the Manitowoc Equipment Works.

Jan. 24, 1851, the schoolboard purchased Lot 12, Block 238 at the northwest corner of South Seventh and Washington streets from Sam Hinckley of Massachusetts for the sum of $60. The school house erected there was a two story frame structure with one clasroom on each floor.

The first teachers on record were Dr. A. C. Gibson (1851-1858) and Jared Thompson (1858-1860). The old schoolhouse still stands and is being used for apartments and a taxi office.

More Southside Schools

The rapid settlement of Manitowoc's southside, to the west and south, brought demands for additional schools. In 1860, the town board created District Joint 4 which detached all of Manitowoc township south of Columbus Street from the First Ward school district. This new district is now known as the Jefferson School.

Third warders living west of South Tenth Street began agitation for a schoolhouse in their area soon after 1860. Oct. 17, 1863, District No. 2 voters approved the purchase of six lots, the present Adams School grounds, from Ben Jones for the sum of $1,800. Before a school could be built on this site, the Manitowoc town board ordered the creation of Manitowoc School District No. 7 composed of the area west of 10th Street, north of Columbus, east of South 26th and south of the river, all in the Third Ward. This district came into existence Sept. 22, 1866.

Parochial schools were organized about the same time as public schools were developing. The German Evangelical congregation organized the first of such schools in 1856, holding classes in the church building and later in a new parsonage-school structure.

St. Boniface opened the first Catholic parochial school in a private building on Jay Street in 1863. A combination convent-school building was erected on the church property about 1871. The first teachers were the founders of the Franciscan Sisters of Christian Charity, the order which established the convent at Silver Lake.

District Records Preserved

The records of the First Ward (District No. 2) school are available from 1864 to 1910 and are stored in the vault in the Board of Education building. In these record books are to be found the names of district officers, of many residents, district statistics, official business transacted, petitions and resolutions presented and other historical items too numerous to list. It is a veritable "treasure chest" of information about early southside Manitowoc.

The record book makes yearly mention of "tax certificates" prior to 1900. The certificates were issued by tax payers to pay their taxes. These notes were backed by the property that the issuer owned, were due and payable at a designated date and bore a certain rate of interest. These certificates could be sold by the district but usually at less than face value. By paying taxes in this way a taxpayer could use his cash for speculation, payment of debts, purchase of more property, or investments of any kind. The payment of school taxes by this method often financially embarrassed the district.

FIRST WARD SCHOOL—This building, now used as an office for a taxi firm and with apartments on the first and second floors, was used as the First Ward School at Manitowoc from 1852 until 1872. It stands at the northwest corner of South Seventh and Washington streets.

SQUIRRELS GROW FRISKY — Donald E. Gollata of 728A N. 11th St. Manitowoc, isn't one to pass up a chance to help anyone, even baby squirrels. He found these two squirrels, called Linus and Peanuts, abandoned in the neighborhood. One of them had an eye injury which has since healed. The male grey squirrels were fed milk with an eye dropper and have now graduated to chopped nuts and bread. Gollata said he will continue to feed the squirrels until they can fend for themselves and then will release them in favorable habitat. (Photo by staff photographer)

Work Started on School as Bids Revised

(Editor's Note — This series of articles on early-day schools in the City of Manitowoc was prepared by the late Joseph J. Rappel, former Manitowoc County superintendent of schools, a former elementary grade school principal and teacher for many years.)

(Another in a Series)

By JOSEPH J. RAPPEL

MANITOWOC — After a decade of use, the wood - burning furnaces were replaced by new ones. Electric lights were installed in 1891. Except for a few minor interior changes, the building was beginning to become more and more outmoded and over-crowded.

Finally in the summer of 1895, the school board was authorized to get plans and estimates for an addition to the building and for remodeling of the old part. A special meeting of voters called for Nov. 2, 1895, to examine the plans and to vote on the acceptance of the same. The plan called for an east and a west wing to the original building.

Since the plans were not official ones, Julius Lindstedt introduced a resolution to engage an architect to draw up plans and specifications. The voters recommended that each new wing be two stories with a classroom on each floor; that two existing rooms of the second floor be made into an auditorium; that a modern heating and ventilating system and flush-type lavatories in stalled throughout. The resolution further provided for a $10,000 loan, said loan to be repaid in five installments of $2,000 annually.

Work Completed

Bids opened April 4, 1896, totaled well over $13,000, so all bids were rejected. Addition plans were altered so that only the west wing would be added. New bids were opened April 18, and the following contracts awarded: G.N. Kennedy, carpenter, $3,528; Charles Lange, mason, $2,268; William Rathsack, tinwork, $304; Rand-Roemer, heating - plumbing, $3,115; Walter Green, painting, $523; P.S. Tillson, excavating, etc., $249; architect fees, $325; total, $10,312.

Free textbooks were provided after 1887. Official school district notices were placed in German newspapers, "The Nordwesten" and the "Manitowoc Post." The district clerk's salary was $50 yearly. A.M. Richter was school clerk for several decades. Yearly eighth grade and high school graduation exercises were held in Turner Hall until 1910. The first kindergarten class for the district was authorized in 1887.

C.A. Viebahn served as principal from 1870 to 1879 when he became county superintendent of schools. F.G. Young then served until 1883; John Moeller, 1883-86; P.H. Hewitt, 1886-94. A total of six grade school teachers were on the faculty by 1883.

SCHOOL IS NO MORE—This is how the Roosevelt Elementary School at South Eighth and Hamilton streets, Manitowoc, looked before it was razed a number of years ago? The site is now being used for construction of a new public library. Originally the New First Ward School was built at this location, becoming the Roosevelt School, and in April of 1896 bids were approved for an addition to the structure. An account of the building and allied interesting highlights of the educational period are contained in an adjoining story by the late Joseph J. Rappel, an educator for half a century. School picnic funds for band and refreshments were voted yearly. Picnics were gala affairs at Silver Creek Park.

Consolidations Proposed

Four school districts under the jurisdiction of the county superintendent were in existence in Manitowoc from 1867 to 1910. An attempt was made to consolidate these school districts as early as 1869 but was voted down by a landslide vote. District records show that sentiment for such a move continued to grow.

Henry Stolze, later mayor of Manitowoc, was a leader in the unification movement. He introduced a resolution at the First Ward school meeting in July, 1900, to take steps leading to a referendum. A committee was appointed to contact the city council for such action, but it was not until July 28, 1905, that the citizens could vote on the question. A heated campaign was carried on by opponents and proponents. The plan was defeated 1,275 to 1,009, but the closeness of the vote encouraged those favoring a unified district and a central high school to try again.
